County Appropriation Is Increased To $261,145

Land Reappraisal
Takes Large Fund

Pickaway county commissioners have approved $261,145 for the 1949 annual appropriation which marks an increase of $23,003 more than was earmarked for county expenses last year.

Major portion of the increases was taken up in salary raises for deputies in seven offices and 30 percent pay hikes for eight elected county officials, according to County Auditor Fred Tipton, clerk of the commission.

Other noticeable outlay increases were made in the auditor's office for the countywide real estate reappraisal this year and for courthouse and jail furniture.

What ordinarily amounts to a $500 appropriation, the commissioners set aside $12,000 this year for salaries of reappraisal of county property. Another $1,000 was allowed for courthouse and jail equipment.

Cutbacks in appropriation figures were made in nine county departments and expenditures remained the same in nine other accounts. Increases were allowed in the 21 remaining posts.

INCREASED salary allowances were made for deputies in the county auditor's office, treasurer's office, for the prosecuting attorney's stenographer, in probate court, clerk of courts, sheriff's office and county agent.

The commissioners approved $200 more in the auditor's office for four deputies. Total salary appropriation is $7,300, an increase of $350 in the treasurer's office for three deputies. Total pay appropriation is $5,450.

An additional $60 for the prosecutor's stenographer bringing the total of $1,680; another $120 increase for two deputies in probate court. Total for salaries there is $5,808.

For two deputies in the clerk of court's office, $700 raise was approved totaling $4,000; the sheriff's department was given $700 more for three deputies bringing the salary total to $6,940.

An additional $900 was granted the county agriculture agent's office for the hiring of a third agent. L. A. Best said a third person was needed to improve the county 4-H Club program. Total for pay—$4,050.

County Auditor Fred L. Tipton explained that the total figures in the pay increases was explained.

Bill Odom Wings Way From Hawaii To East Coast

HONOLULU, Jan. 13—Capt. Bill Odom, noted globe-girdling pilot, was well over the Pacific today on an attempted record-breaking non-stop flight from Honolulu to the Atlantic coast.

Four hours after Odom's take-off, a PBV bomber escorting him part of the way reported by radio to the Air-Sea Rescue Service here:

"Weather good. Flight normal."

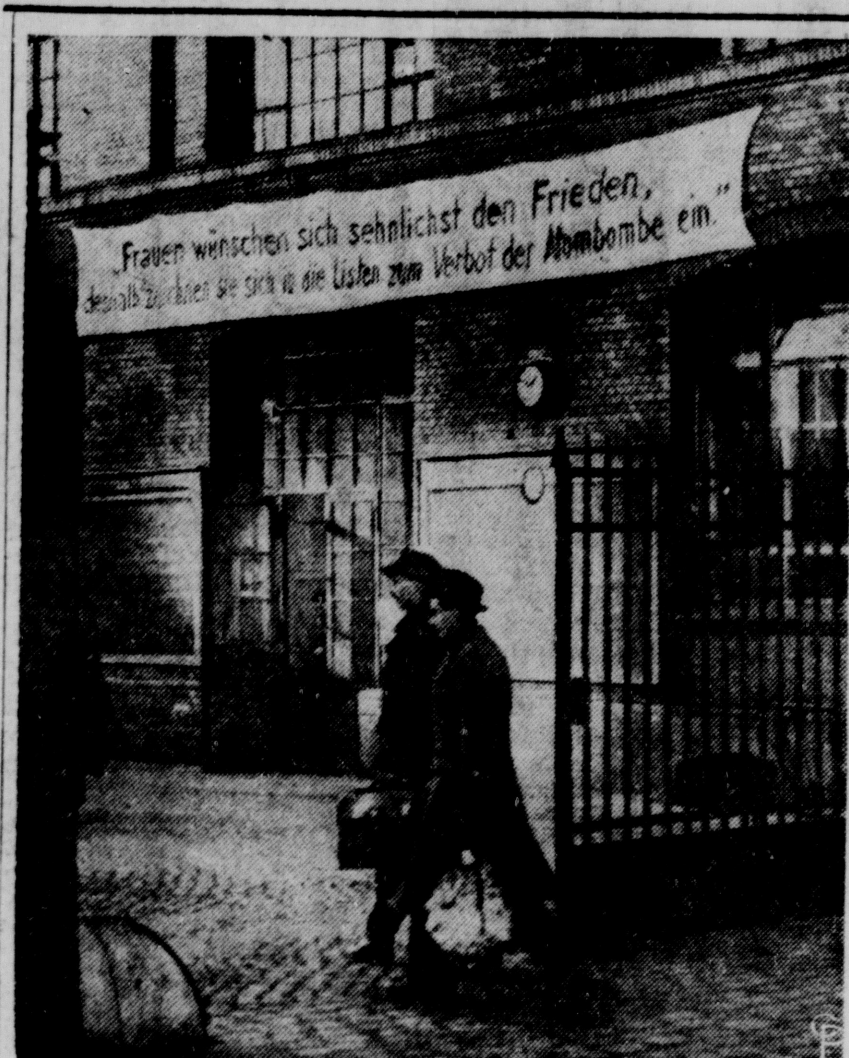

At 8:30 a. m. (EST), he was reported halfway across the Pacific.

A Civil Aeronautics Authority bulletin from LaGuardia field said that about nine hours after his takeoff, Odom was 1,200 miles out over the ocean or approximately halfway to Seattle, his first land target.

The famed flier, seeking to crack the light-plane non-stop mark held by two Russian air-men, lifted his tiny, single-engine Beechcraft Bonanza from Honolulu's John Rodgers airport at 11:32 p. m. (EST) last night.

He required less than 3,000 feet of runway to take off in his 185-horsepower plane loaded down with 260 gallons of gasoline.

Odom hoped to fly without stopping for more than 5,000 miles over the Great Circle route across the Pacific and the United States. His announced objective was Teterboro Airport in New Jersey.

ANNOUNCING A NEW two-year plan for the Soviet sector of Berlin and the Soviet zone, Communist authorities plastered posters on all factories describing the plan and then tossed in a little extra propaganda. This poster, at the entrance to a plant in Berlin, includes the statement: "Women wish from the bottom of their hearts for freedom. Therefore they sign the list forbidding use of the atom bomb."

Taber Says No New Taxes Necessary In Truman Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—The Republican economy chief in Congress charged today that President Truman has "underestimated" revenue for the 1950 fiscal year and said no tax increase is necessary.

Rep. Taber, (R) N. Y., stated that revenue for the new fiscal year beginning July 1 probably will total "at least" $42.5 billion instead of the $41 billion estimated by the President in his budget message.

First Peacetime Draftee To Get Call By Army

Pickaway County's first peacetime draftee has been ordered to report for duty Jan. 26, at Ft. Hayes in Columbus.

He is Chester Peters, 22, of Ashville, who was rejected for military service in 1944. Peters is the son of Crissie Peters and listed his occupation as a plumber.

Out of 56 county men who have been called for pre-induction physical examinations only two have qualified, Betty Heath, clerk of the local draft board reported.

Reports from the four men, who were called in the January quota earlier this month, declared none of them passed the physical requirement test.

Donald Stevens, 21, of Laurelville, called in the December 10, quota is the only other Pickaway Countyman to have passed the physical examinations out of a total of 56 called, Mrs. Heath said.

Notice of induction was being sent to Peters through the mail Thursday. He is the first man to be called up by the Army since the war years.

Hitler's Court Jester Says Adolf Was American-Type Self-Made Man

MUNICH, Jan. 13—Dr. Ernst "Putzi" Hanfstaengl, one-time "court jester" to Adolf Hitler, described Der Fuehrer today as a "typical American-type self-made man."

The description was given before a Weillheim, Upper Bavaria, denazification court, where Hanfstaengl, a Harvard graduate, attempted to justify his conversion to Hitler's cause and his rise to the position of chief of staff of the Nazi foreign office.

The 62-year-old grandson of an American general, Hanfstaengl described himself as a friend of the late President Franklin Del-

This is about $1.5 billion in excess of the President's estimate and Taber termed his own estimate conservative. Taber stated:

"The President has recommended to Congress expenditures for the coming year totaling 41 billion 858 million dollars. He says that this will result in a deficit of $873 million and has asked for new taxes. No new taxes are necessary."

The Republican leader added that he will tell Congress how "at least" $2 billion could be cut from the President's record peacetime budget. He said the cut would provide sufficient funds to defray the cost of any new projects not included in the budget, such as military aid to Western Europe.

THE PRESIDENT asked for $4 billion in new taxes to wipe out his estimated deficit, balance the budget, and provide a surplus "for contingencies."

In addition, he urged that payroll taxes be increased about $2 billion to defray the cost of an expanded Social Security program.

Rep. Eberhart, (D) Pa., a member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, predicted that his group will pretty much carry out the President's wishes.

However, a tax increase bill is expected to have tougher sledding in the Senate, where the finance committee is headed by Sen. George, (D) Ga., who supported the Republican tax cut last year.

Rites Are Set

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—Funeral services for Willie Howard, 63, one of America's most beloved comedians, will be held here at 2 p. m. Friday. The veteran actor died yesterday.

He told the court that he met Roosevelt in 1913, and that they became very close friends, having breakfast and dinner together almost every day that year.

He added that he was at one time a constant White House guest, that his wife is an American citizen, and that his son, too, went to Harvard.

Justifying his conversion to Nazism, Hanfstaengl said that he believed Hitler, and that he was attracted by the "magnetic power" of his speeches as well as the claim that Germany needed "lebensraum"—living space.

OHIO HOUSE REBELS, REFUSES DEMO PANEL APPOINTMENTS

U. S., Britain Talk Over Zion Issue

London Envoy, Truman Confer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—President Truman and Sir Oliver Franks, British ambassador, conferred for nearly a half hour today on the tinder box Palestine situation.

It was believed that the high level conference dealt with a complete presentation of the views of the United States and Britain over the crisis in the Holy Land.

Franks, on leaving the White House, refused to disclose any details of the meeting with the President. He said:

"I have just been talking with the President and I have presented to him the views of my government on the Palestine problem."

He said any further information would have to come from the White House. The chief executive will hold a news conference later today and he may at that time reveal particulars of the White House meeting this morning.

FRANKS declared he had not seen a London report that Acting Secretary of State Lovett has asked the British to send out reconnaissance planes from Egypt. Five of the planes were shot down by Israeli fighters, furnishing the latest provocative incident in the Palestine situation.

However, White House Secretary Charles G. Ross laughed aside this London report.

Franks made it clear that the views he presented were similar to those he presented to Lovett yesterday. These views were regarded as conciliatory in nature.

The ambassador insisted that he had delivered no formal note to Mr. Truman and

Jews, Egyptians In Parley With UN Mediator

RHODES, Jan. 13—UN Mediators Dr. Ralph J. Bunche held preliminary talks with Egyptian and Israeli peace parley delegates today before summoning them to meet in a roundtable session.

Bunche met separately with the Jews and the Arabs, spending about an hour with each group. It was understood that sessions dealt with the setting up of an agenda for the armistice talks.

Reports in advance of the meetings said that hopes for peace are high following indications that both the Jews and Arabs are willing to compromise their Negev demands.

The Egyptian and Israeli delegates are scheduled to be brought face to face for the first time today by Bunche in a plenary session. Bunche is expected to open the meeting with an appeal to both sides for full cooperation.

The peace talks will take place in a long mirrored room of the Hotel Des Roses whose French windows look out on the blue and peaceful waters of the Mediterranean.

Atmosphere in the hotel is tense with excitement, in marked contrast to the rest of the island whose inhabitants seem unaware of the world importance of the peace talks.

Hopes for peace were somewhat allayed by the disparity between the Jewish and Egyptian delegations.

All four Circleville banks re-elected their directors for the coming year at meetings held Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

Two promotions were reported.

All North China On Brink Of Fall To Red Armies

NANKING, Jan. 13—Chinese Communists were reported today to have renewed their frontal attacks on encircled Tientsin and all North China appeared on the brink of falling to the Red armies.

Only two isolated Nationalist islands of resistance—Tientsin and Peiping—were left in the entire rich northern region of the war-torn country.

The fate of Tientsin, North China's foremost industrial and communications center with a population of some 1,500,000, was expected to be decided in a matter of a few days if not hours.

Eighty-five miles to the northwest, strenuous endeavors were reported under way to elicit from the Communist besiegers of Peiping a cease-fire order, preliminary to negotiation of possible surrender.

Civic and cultural leaders of China's former capital of "imperial glory" were said to have taken the initiative in contacting the commander of the Communist siege troops.

This was reportedly done so that Peiping, one of the world's outstanding centers of architectural grandeur and historic significance, might be spared the ravages of street fighting.

Ohio Workers, Old Age Pensions To Be Paid; Bill Is Finally OKd

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—The 26,000 state workers and the 124,000 old age pensioners will get their first 1949 checks on time.

The $145,809,417 partial appropriations bill, to provide funds for the state's operation for the first six months of the year, finally passed both houses and was sent to Gov. Frank Lausche for his signature.

The bill, previously passed by the senate, was amended yesterday in the house to give Republican State Treasurer Don H. Ebright an additional $11,000 in personal service funds.

The standing vote of the amendment was 63-53 with many Democrats refusing to stand to be counted in opposition to the measure. It was reported to many of them privately that Ebright would "take care of" former Senate Clerk Tom Bateman and Former House Clerk Carl Guess with the additional funds.

Other sources, however, said the money was needed to meet regular payrolls, since the partial appropriations bill was figured on the basis of payrolls of last October—when Ebright's staff was at its lowest point of the biennium.

The house then passed the bill, 128-1, with Rep. Ray Carpenter (R-Seneca) casting the lone dissenting vote in what he termed a protest against the rising costs of government.

The bill then was sent back to a waiting senate for concurrence in the amendment, which was voted 28-0.

Leadership Under Fire In Assembly

Youngstown Solon Is Under Attack

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—The organization of the Ohio house of representatives, laboriously completed in two weeks of plodding work, exploded today as the house rebelled and refused to accept Speaker John F. Cantwell's committee assignments.

The house, by a vote of 66 to 61, amended the rules to require that the minority be given at least 40 percent representation on all committees.

This would require, at the least, reappointment of the all-powerful rules committee, the important finance committee, and the elections, financial institutions, judiciary, and reference committees.

It was the second time in the session that Cantwell's fellow Democrats refused to stand by him. Earlier, the house approved, 63-53, an amendment to the $145,809,417 partial appropriations bill to give Republican State Treasurer Don H. Ebright an additional $11,000 in personal service funds.

THE HOUSE then passed the bill, to provide funds for state operations for the first six months of the year, by a 128-1 vote, but because of the amendment it had to be sent back to a waiting senate for concurrence.

The senate concurred in the amendment, 28-0, and the bill was to be sent to Gov. Frank Lausche for his signature today after it is engrossed by the senate and house presiding officers.

When Lausche signs the bill, he will release the first checks of the year to 26,000 waiting state employees and to 124,000 old age pensioners.

The amendment to the house rules was on a motion offered by one of Cantwell's own party—Rep. James Carney (D-Cuyahoga). After it was adopted, Minority Leader C. William O'Neill (R-Washington) launched

Acheson Tells Ties To Hiss

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—Dean Acheson, nominated by President Truman to be secretary of state, testified today that he remains on friendly terms with Alger and Donald Hiss, Communist spy case figures.

Acheson appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to defend his record in and out of government and his qualifications for the top cabinet post.

He denied that Alger Hiss, accused by ex-Communist Whit-taker Chambers of furnishing secret State Department information to a Red spy apparatus, ever was his top assistant.

But he said that Alger's brother, Donald Hiss, held such a position in the State Department and "served with complete fidelity."

Ohio Workers, Old Age Pensions To Be Paid; Bill Is Finally OKd

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—The 26,000 state workers and the 124,000 old age pensioners will get their first 1949 checks on time.

The $145,809,417 partial appropriations bill, to provide funds for the state's operation for the first six months of the year, finally passed both houses and was sent to Gov. Frank Lausche for his signature.

The bill, previously passed by the senate, was amended yesterday in the house to give Republican State Treasurer Don H. Ebright an additional $11,000 in personal service funds.

The standing vote of the amendment was 63-53 with many Democrats refusing to stand to be counted in opposition to the measure. It was reported to many of them privately that

Leadership Under Fire In Assembly

Youngstown Solon Is Under Attack

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—The organization of the Ohio house of representatives, laboriously completed in two weeks of plodding work, exploded today as the house rebelled and refused to accept Speaker John F. Cantwell's committee assignments.

The house, by a vote of 66 to 61, amended the rules to require that the minority be given at least 40 percent representation on all committees.

This would require, at the least, reapportionment of the all-powerful rules committee, the important finance committee, and the elections, financial institutions, judiciary, and reference committees.

It was the second time in the session that Cantwell's fellow Democrats refused to stand by him. Earlier, the house approved, 63-53, an amendment to the $145,809,417 partial appropriations bill to give Republican State Treasurer Don H. Ebright an additional $11,000 in personal service funds.

THE HOUSE then passed the bill, to provide funds for state operations for the first six months of the year, by a 128-1 vote, but because of the amendment it had to be sent back to a waiting senate for concurrence.

The senate concurred in the amendment, 28-0, and the bill was to be sent to Gov. Frank Lausche for his signature today after it is engrossed by the senate and house presiding officers. When Lausche signs the bill, he will release the first checks of the year to 26,000 waiting state employees and to 124,000 old age pensioners.

The amendment to the house rules was on a motion offered by one of Cantwell's own party—Rep. James Carney (D-Cuyahoga). After it was adopted, Minority Leader C. William O'Neil (R-Washington) launched (Continued on Page Two)

Acheson Tells Ties To Hiss

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—Dean Acheson, nominated by President Truman to be secretary of state, testified today that he remains on friendly terms with Alger and Donald Hiss, Communist spy case figures.

Acheson appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to defend his record in and out of government and his qualifications for the top cabinet post.

He denied that Alger Hiss, accused by ex-Communist Whitaker Chambers of furnishing secret State Department information to a Red spy apparatus, ever was his top assistant.

But he said that Alger's brother, Donald Hiss, held such a position in the State Department and "served with complete fidelity."

Countians Plead Guilty To Theft

Four prisoners who escaped the Mansfield reformatory Sunday night appeared in Mansfield municipal court Thursday in a preliminary arraignment, accused of auto theft.

The four pleaded guilty and were bound over to the grand jury on $1500 bond each.

They were Delmar Weaver and Emerson Cain, both 21 and of Pickaway County; 21-year-old Carl Daniels of Stark County and 29-year-old Ike Hall of Hamilton County.

County commissioners and prosecuting attorney both are the same as the recorder; engineer—$2,850 basic to $3,710; probate judge—$2,280 basic to $3,826.

Not affected this year by the state approved pay raises are the coroner, auditor and one county commissioner. The auditor's pay will be increased at beginning of new term in 1951 the same as the seat held by Commissioner Lyman Penn.

Reduction in appropriations were made at the children's home amounting to $450; for insurance $3,000 less; $1,500 less for pensions; $200 less in the relief department.

Court of appeals received $250 less; justice of peace and constable were given $200 less; tuberculosis hospital and care was cutback $500; other health was $300 less and other welfare was dropped $50.

FOLLOWING is a comparative list of 1949 and 1948 total appropriations in the county's 39 departments dependent upon funds:

County commissioners, $13,950 from $13,500; auditor, $27,160 from $14,760; treasurer, $8,804 from $8,000; prosecuting attorney, $4,605 from $4,207.50; bureau of inspection, $2,000 from $1,900.

Common pleas court, $10,950 from $10,850; court of appeals, nothing from $250; juvenile court, $13,690 from same; probate court, $9,783 from $9,743; clerk of court, $6,793 from $5,595.25.

Coroner, $750 from same; justice of peace and constable, $250 from $450; board of election, $11,520 from $10,424; courthouse and jail, $20,860 from $18,700; memorial building, $1,500 from same.

Sheriff, $19,320 from $17,900.25; recorder, $4,532 from $3,807; agriculture, $9,000 from $7,150; tuberculosis hospital and care, $7,500 from $8,000; registration of vital statistics, $300 from same.

Other health, $1,900 from $2,200; other welfare, nothing from $50; county home, $21,540 from same; children's home, $22,300 from $22,750; dependent children, $7,600 from same.

Soldiers' relief, $15,098 from $14,225; poor relief, $1,500 from same; other charity, $1,000 from same; cleaning and repair, $700 from $450; highways, $6,800 from same; insurance, $3,200 from $6,200.

Pensions, $3,500 from $5,000; miscellaneous, $1,050 from same; from dog and kennel club, $4,766 from $4,716; bond retirement, $3,500 from same; aid to dependent children, $74,851.96 and none shown in 1948; aid to the blind, $11,000 and none shown in 1948.

The commissioners appropriated $226,910 from gasoline tax in 1949 for highway maintenance, repair, construction and other engineering costs. Last year they appropriated $206,150 from the fund.

Hylean Amazon Project of UNESCO Gets Underway to Study Equator Resources for Man's Future Use

AMAZON PRIMITIVES—The UNESCO project will probe mysterious jungle domain of these barbarians.

By H. D. CRAWFORD
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Can you visualize an international project in 1948 involving the development of virgin forests and other natural resources covering a tropical region 50 per cent larger than the United States?

Such a project is the International Institute of the Hylean Amazon, one of the numerous undertakings sponsored by the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization.

It encompasses some 4,500,000 square miles of the vast basin of the world's largest river, the Amazon, and surrounding forested areas. It involves six Latin American republics and British, French, and Dutch Guiana. Uncle Sam has helped get the project under way.

This was one of the projects reported to the United States National Commission for UNESCO when its fifth semi-annual conference opened Sept. 25 at Boston. Developments on the Hylean Amazon project will also be reported to the Third General Conference of UNESCO later in the year when all 29 member nations send their delegates to cope with major educational, scientific, and cultural problems confronting our frustrated world.

"Hylean" was the name given by Humboldt and others to equatorial America, that huge stretch of Latin American forests, jungles, and basins between the Andes and the Atlantic, and drained by the mighty Amazon and its 200 tributaries. Consequently, "Hylean" was chosen as an appropriate name for UNESCO's long-view scientific project in the Amazon country.

The Hylean Amazon project was authorized at the first session of the general conference of UNESCO. The original recommendation stressed the scientific, social, and economic importance of this region where, through the centuries, the jungle has thwarted civilization.

It emphasized the urgency of scientific studies, including medical investigations, so that knowledge of the region, its resources, its possibilities, and its problems could be obtained.

This knowledge can be utilized, it is believed, in tapping this great storehouse of natural resources, and for improving living conditions in the tropics.

The Hylean Institute, formally set up last May, is said to be "the nearest approach the world has yet seen to planned international effort for coming to grips with a specific problem on natural resources."

It proposes to apply the best principles of science, common sense, and technical skill to the development of one of the earth's

The United States was among 10 nations that sent delegates to Iquitos, Peru, last spring to establish the Hylean Amazon Institute. Others were Bolivia, Brazil, Colombia, Ecuador, France, Italy, Netherlands, Peru, and Venezuela. Switzerland and the United Kingdom sent accredited observers.

This nation did not sign the convention adopted at Iquitos, however, explaining that operation of the Hylean institute would be primarily the responsibility of nations possessing Amazon territory. Full collaboration of United States organizations and institutions was offered, however, in the belief that in this way this nation could make its most valuable contribution.

Any member nation of the United Nations, or its specialized organizations, may become a member of the Hylean Amazon Institute.

Scientists this summer have been carrying on investigations in zoology, botany, and anthropology in the Amazon region. Studies will be co-ordinated and published. Museums will be established. Scientists hope to study social ways of Amazon natives who thus far have scarcely been touched by civilization's influences.

The Amazon is the world's largest river in volume. Only the Mississippi and the Nile are longer. The Amazon empties more water into the Atlantic than flows in the eight largest rivers of Asia together.

WATERS from the Peruvian Andes form the headwaters of the Amazon, which flows eastward across Brazil and empties into the Atlantic at the equator through a mouth so large it is considered as part of the sea.

When the Amazon leaves Peru it is a mile or so wide, but as it winds down through the jungle its average width is from four to six miles. Steamers can ascend as far as Iquitos, 2,300 miles from the Atlantic. Smaller steamers can go 456 miles further up the river. Ocean-going steamers rarely go beyond 90 miles from the ocean.

One hundred of the Amazon's 200 tributaries are navigable, with 17 of these ranging from 1,000 to 2,300 miles in length.

You can imagine what an inland waterway system that affords, and what possibilities it may have for the future. One of the paradoxes of history and geography is that the world's largest river system should be the last to yield to mankind.

TRADING POSTS do exist along the Amazon. Out of these come rubber, sugar, hides, coffee, timber, tobacco, oranges, cotton, bananas, nuts, frozen meats, and various other tropical commodities.

Dense jungles border the Amazon's greater portions. Thick vines and underbrush are inhabited by insects, jungle beasts, birds, water mammals, and huge serpents. In some areas trees 200 feet high tower above this jungle. Little is known about much of the region.

UNESCO projects like the Hylean Amazon institute may not be immediately dramatic, but they can bring notable results over a period of years. Intensive research of the natural and social sciences concentrated on the vast Amazon country can bring amazing developments.

Here is one of the challenging frontiers of our times. Modern pioneers are going into the wilderness armed with scientific equipment. If history repeats itself, they will in time convert a primitive jungle into a productive region of cities, farms, productive forests, and new industries; they will conquer diseases and pests that through centuries have made human life in the equatorial jungle hazardous or impossible.

Reappointment of Mrs. Sadie Radcliff as Pickaway County jail matron was made by Judge Sterling M. Lamb in probate court. Her pay was set down at $130 per month.

Mrs. Radcliff's term is retroactive to begin Jan. 3 and to continue until the first Monday in 1950. Her husband, Charles Radcliff, is sheriff of this county.

Monday and would take little time to assemble. The remote control panels will be installed in the city police and sheriff's office, and the main body of the broadcasting equipment will be stationed on the second floor of City Hall.

The experts, Joe Hogan representing the Motorola Co. and Al Shirk and C. J. Emmons, Ohio experts on police radio transmission, inspected City Hall roof for the most probable erection point.

The antenna is reported to be the hardest job of the installation, weighing nearly 40 pounds and to be erected on a 40-foot steel pipe nearly 100 feet above street level. Weather is the prime factor of its erection.

Hogan told the mayor the missing parts would be here

into a scathing attack on Cantwell's leadership.

O'Neill particularly attacked Cantwell's own Youngstown and Mahoning County, which has four members in the house.

Those four members share O'Neill charged, the speakership, the chairmanship of the rules committee, the chairmanship of the reference committee, the vice-chairmanship of the finance committee, and in all ten committee appointments on nine different committees.

O'Neill then caustically commented:

"The first thing to be asked of any bill when it comes before this house will be: What will it do for Youngstown?"

By contrast, O'Neill said, one Republican was given only one committee assignment on the purely perfunctory enrollment committee.

O'Neill also charged that Cantwell had appointed members from five counties to the chairmanships for the other 83 counties.

THE MINORITY leader attacked the boasted Democratic plan to streamline the legislature as having, to date, accomplished only one thing—the changing of the name of the committee on industrial relations to the committee on industry and labor.

Cantwell had to depart from tradition to defeat another proposed rules amendment, offered by Rep. Ray C. Carpenter (R-Seneca) which would have enabled the house to take a bill away from the reference committee by majority vote. The vote to table the amendment was tied until Cantwell asked the clerk to call his name. He then voted to table the measure.

Another Carpenter amendment, to bar lobbyists from the well of the house during sessions, was defeated by voice vote.

Adopted was a proposal of R. Joseph Schwartz (R-Hamilton) to require the house journal to show the authors of amendments adopted in committee. Currently the only authors listed are those of amendments offered from the floor.

Court Upholds Shutoff Of Gas

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—The right of a public utility company to shut off gas service to a customer who installs space heating equipment without approval was upheld today by the state supreme court.

The high court dismissed the appeal of Joseph C. Ruhlman, of Akron, who sought to enjoin the East Ohio Gas Co. from shutting off service.

Ruhlman had made application for gas service but the company denied him approval. The court of appeals, upheld by the high court, ruled that the company acted within the bounds of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio emergency order limiting gas service.

CIO Knows Who Lost Election

CLEVELAND, Jan. 13—Jack Kroll, Ohio CIO chief and director of the National CIO Political Action Committee, warned today that "big business should not forget who lost the election."

In the keynote address at the Ohio CIO Council convention here, Kroll declared that for the first time in a decade a majority of the representatives in the national legislature are liberals, but only because of "the food profiteers, the rent gougers, the labor haters, the power trusts. They are the ones who lost the election. All the ugly forces of reaction were defeated at the polls last November."

Livestock Sale Volume Up, But Prices Fall Off

Volume rose and prices fell at the Pickaway Livestock Association auctions Wednesday.

A total of 1,111 head of stock was marketed in the Wednesday auctions, an increase of 280 head as compared to the 851 head sold last week. But prices fell in nearly every sale, each of the four categories listing declines and not one increase was noted.

Cattle receipts increased 82 head Wednesday when 294 were sold as compared to the 212 auctioned last Wednesday.

Hogs sales showed the largest volume increase this week when 600 head were sold, an increase of 100 head as compared to the 500 marketed last week.

Calf receipts increased 10 head Wednesday when 74 were sold while only 64 were sold last week.

Sheep and lamb receipts increased 62 head this week, 143 sold this week and only 75 marketed last Wednesday.

Complete report of the Wednesday market transactions follows:

CATTLE RECEIPTS—294 head—Good and choice, 180-240 lbs. 21-25.75; lights, 160-180 lbs. 21.50; light lights, 140-160 lbs. 18.50; heavyweights, 240-260 lbs. 20.50; 260-280 lbs. 18.75; 280-300 lbs. 17.75; 300-350 lbs. 16.75-17; 350-400 lbs. 16.25; pigs, 100-140 lbs. 17.50-23.50; Packing Sows, lights, 250-500 lbs. 14-16; boars, heavy, 10-120; light, 12-15.75.

that their meeting was devoted entirely to conversation.

It was thought that Franks clarified Great Britain's position and got from the President indications of the American attitude in the hope that the two governments could reach a field of cooperation to end the Jewish-Arab hostilities.

Observers believed that Mr. Truman discussed Palestine yesterday in his brief visit with Retiring Secretary of State Marshall in Pinehurst, N. C.

Mr. Truman told reporters on his return to Washington last night that he "needed" to talk with the secretary of state, who is leaving the cabinet Jan. 20 for reasons of health.

The Palestine situation, complicated by the Israeli action last week in shooting down the five British airplanes, is one of the most pressing international problems confronting the chief executive.

Thus his talk with Marshall is thought to have aided Mr. Truman in preparation for his conference with Franks.

DEATHS and Funerals

INFANT SEYMOUR

James Herbert Seymour, 1-month, 23-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Seymour of North Long street, Ashville, died in Children's hospital, Columbus, at 4 a. m. Thursday. He was transferred into the Columbus hospital for medical treatment after birth in Berger hospital here Nov. 20.

He is survived by two brothers at home and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Seymour, also of Ashville.

Private funeral services will be conducted in the Harley Seymour home at 10:30 a. m. Saturday with the Rev. J. D. Hopper officiating. Burial will be in South Bloomfield cemetery by E. F. Schlegel Funeral Home.

Friends may call in the Harley Seymour residence after 1 p. m. Friday.

The commissioners appropriated $226,910 from gasoline tax in 1949 for highway maintenance, repair, construction and other engineering costs. Last year they appropriated $206,150 from the fund.

Hylean Amazon Project of UNESCO Gets Underway to Study Equator Resources for Man's Future Use

AMAZON PRIMITIVES—The UNESCO project will probe mysterious jungle domain of these barbarians.

By H. D. CRAWFORD
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Can you visualize an international project in 1948 involving the development of virgin forests and other natural resources covering a tropical region 50 per cent larger than the United States?

Such a project is the International Institute of the Hylean Amazon, one of the numerous undertakings sponsored by the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization.

It encompasses some 4,500,000 square miles of the vast basin of the world's largest river, the Amazon, and surrounding forested areas. It involves six Latin American republics and British, French, and Dutch Guiana. Uncle Sam has helped get the project under way.

This was one of the projects reported to the United States National Commission for UNESCO when its fifth semi-annual conference opened Sept. 28 at Boston. Developments on the Hylean Amazon project will also be reported to the Third General Conference of UNESCO later in the year when all 39 member nations send their delegates to cope with major educational, scientific, and cultural problems confronting our frustrated world.

"Hylea" was the name given by Humboldt and others to equatorial America, that huge stretch of Latin American forests, jungles, and basins between the Andes and the Atlantic, and drained by the mighty Amazon and its 200 tributaries. Consequently, "Hylean" was chosen as an appropriate name for UNESCO's long-view scientific project in the Amazon country.

THE HYLEAN Amazon project was authorized at the first session of the general conference of UNESCO. The original recommendation stressed the scientific, social, and economic importance of this region where, through the centuries, the jungle has thwarted civilization.

It emphasized the urgency of scientific studies, including medical investigations, so that knowledge of the region, its resources, its possibilities, and its problems could be obtained.

This knowledge can be utilized, it is believed, in tapping this great storehouse of natural resources, and for improving living conditions in the tropics.

The Hylean institute, formally set up last May, is said to be "the nearest approach the world has yet seen to planned international effort for coming to grips with a specific problem on natural resources."

It proposes to apply the best principles of science, common sense, and technical skill to the development of one of the earth's greatest unexploited regions.

The United States was among 10 nations that sent delegates to Iquitos, Peru, last spring to establish the Hylean Amazon Institute. Others were Bolivia, Brazil, Colombia, Ecuador, France, Italy, Netherlands, Peru, and Venezuela. Switzerland and the United Kingdom sent accredited observers.

This nation did not sign the convention adopted at Iquitos, however, explaining that operation of the Hylean institute would be primarily the responsibility of nations possessing Amazon territory. Full collaboration of United States organizations and institutions was offered, however, in the belief that in this way this nation could make its most valuable contribution.

Any member nation of the United Nations, or its specialized organizations, may become a member of the Hylean Amazon Institute.

Scientists this summer have been carrying on investigations in zoology, botany, and anthropology in the Amazon region. Studies will be co-ordinated and published. Museums will be established. Scientists hope to study social ways of Amazon natives who thus far have scarcely been touched by civilization's influences.

The Amazon is the world's largest river in volume. Only the Mississippi and the Nile are longer. The Amazon empties more water into the Atlantic than flows in the eight largest rivers of Asia together.

WATERS from the Peruvian Andes form the headwaters of the Amazon, which flows eastward across Brazil and empties into the Atlantic at the equator through a mouth so large it is considered as part of the sea.

When the Amazon leaves Peru it is 1 mile or so wide, but as it winds down through the jungle its average width is from four to six miles. Steamers can ascend as far as Iquitos, 2,500 miles from the Atlantic. Smaller steamers can go 450 miles further up the river. Ocean-going steamers rarely go beyond 90 miles from the ocean.

One hundred of the Amazon's 200 tributaries are navigable, with 17 of these ranging from 1,000 to 2,300 miles in length.

You can imagine what an inland waterway system that affords, and what possibilities it may have for the future. One of the paradoxes of history and geography is that the world's largest river system should be the last to yield to mankind.

TRADING POSTS do exist along the Amazon. Out of these come rubber, sugar, hides, coffee, timber, tobacco, oranges, cotton, bananas, nuts, frozen meats, and various other tropical commodities.

Dense jungles border the Amazon's greater portions. Thick vines and underbrush are inhabited by insects, jungle beasts, birds, water mammals, and huge serpents. In some areas trees 200 feet high tower above this jungle. Little is known about much of the region.

UNESCO projects like the Hylean Amazon institute may not be immediately dramatic, but they can bring notable results over a period of years. Intensive research of the natural and social sciences concentrated on the vast Amazon country can bring amazing developments.

Here is one of the challenging frontiers of our times. Modern pioneers are going into the wilderness armed with scientific equipment. If history repeats itself, they will in time convert a primitive jungle into a productive region of cities, farms, productive forests, and new industries; they will conquer diseases and pests that through centuries have made human life in the equatorial jungle hazardous or impossible.

Leadership Under Fire In Assembly

into a scathing attack on Cantwell's leadership.

O'Neill particularly attacked Cantwell's own Youngstown and Mahoning County, which has four members in the house.

Those four members share O'Neill charged, the speakership, the chairmanship of the rules committee, the chairmanship of the reference committee, the vice-chairmanship of the finance committee, and in all ten committee appointments on nine different committees.

O'Neill then caustically commented: "The first thing to be asked of any bill when it comes before this house will be: What will it do for Youngstown?"

By contrast, O'Neill said, one Republican was given only one committee assignment on the purely perfunctory enrollment committee.

O'Neill also charged that Cantwell had appointed members from five counties to the chairmanships for the other 83 counties.

THE MINORITY leader attacked the boasted Democratic plan to streamline the legislature as having, to date, accomplished only one thing—the changing of the name of the committee on industrial relations to the committee on industry and labor.

Cantwell had to depart from tradition to defeat another proposed rules amendment, offered by Rep. Ray C. Carpenter (R-Seneca) which would have enabled the house to take a bill away from the reference committee by majority vote. The vote to table the amendment was tied until Cantwell asked the clerk to call his name. He then voted to table the measure.

Another Carpenter amendment, to bar lobbyists from the well of the house during sessions, was defeated by voice vote.

Adopted was a proposal of R. Joseph Schwartz (R-Hamilton) to require the house journal to show the authors of amendments adopted in committee. Currently the only authors listed are those of amendments offered from the floor.

Court Upholds Shutoff Of Gas

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—The right of a public utility company to shut off gas service to a customer who installs space heating equipment without approval was upheld today by the state supreme court.

The high court dismissed the appeal of Joseph C. Ruhlman, of Akron, who sought to enjoin the East Ohio Gas Co. from shutting off service.

Ruhlman had made application for gas service but the company denied him approval. The court of appeals, upheld by the high court, ruled that the company acted within the bounds of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio emergency order limiting gas service.

CIO Knows Who Lost Election

CLEVELAND, Jan. 13—Jack Kroll, Ohio CIO chief and director of the National CIO Political Action Committee, warned today that "big business should not forget who lost the election."

In the keynote address at the Ohio CIO Council convention here, Kroll declared that for the first time in a decade a majority of the representatives in the national legislature are liberals, but only because of "the food profiteers, the rent gougers, the labor haters, the power trusts. They are the ones who lost the election. All the ugly forces of reaction were defeated at the polls last November."

Phony Checks Being Passed

Circleville businessmen were warned Thursday to watch out for phony payroll checks now being cashed in Ohio.

that their meeting was devoted entirely to conversation.

It was thought that Franks clarified Great Britain's position and got from the President indications of the American attitude in the hope that the two governments could reach a field of cooperation to end the Jewish-Arab hostilities.

Observers believed that Mr. Truman discussed Palestine yesterday in his brief visit with Retiring Secretary of State Marshall in Pinehurst, N. C.

Mr. Truman told reporters on his return to Washington last night that he "needed" to talk with the secretary of state, who is leaving the cabinet Jan. 20 for reasons of health.

The Palestine situation, complicated by the Israeli action last week in shooting down the five British airplanes, is one of the most pressing international problems confronting the chief executive.

Thus his talk with Marshall is thought to have aided Mr. Truman in preparation for his conference with Franks.

Britain, France Holding Talks

LONDON, Jan. 13—British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin was reportedly attempting to swing France behind his Middle East policies today in important London talks.

Bevin was closeted with French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman early today in discussions aimed at closely coordinating British and French foreign policy.

France has not recognized Israel—out of deference to her many Moslem subjects—but the French attitude toward the Jewish state has been more conciliatory than that of Bevin.

Tests Delayed On New Police Radio Equipment

First test on the Circleville and Pickaway County two-way radio system will be postponed until late next week.

According to Mayor Thurman F. Miller, the three missing mobile receivers and two remote control panel boards will not arrive until Monday. They are to be shipped from the Motorola factory Friday.

Meanwhile, the mayor and three expert radiomen Thursday began planning for the erection of the towering antenna, which will be erected from the roof of City Hall.

The experts, Joe Hogan representing the Motorola Co. and Al Shirk and C. J. Emmons, Ohio experts on police radio transmission, inspected City Hall roof for the most probable erection point.

The antenna is reported to be the hardest job of the installation, weighing nearly 40 pounds and to be erected on a 40-foot steel pipe nearly 100 feet above street level. Weather is the prime factor of its erection. Hogan told the mayor the missing parts would be here

Matron Of Jail Is Reappointed

Reappointment of Mrs. Sadie Radcliff as Pickaway County jail matron was made by Judge Sterling M. Lamb in probate court. Her pay was set down at $130 per month.

Mrs. Radcliff's term is retroactive to begin Jan. 3 and to continue until the first Monday in 1950. Her husband, Charles Radcliff, is sheriff of this county.

Monday and would take little time to assemble. The remote control panels will be installed in the city police and sheriff's office, and the main body of the broadcasting equipment will be stationed on the second floor of City Hall.

Ohio Bankers Survey Activities During '48

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—Expansion and improvement of services to customers and the public were an important part of the activities of Ohio banks during 1948, according to David M. Auch, executive manager of the Ohio Bankers Association.

"This was accomplished in part through enlargement and modernization of bank buildings and equipment and in part through development of new and expanded services of various types," he said.

"During and after the war, Auch said, 'the volume of business handled by banks increased to the point where banking quarters and mechanical aids to good services became inadequate. As materials and other items became available, new buildings were erected and old ones modernized and re-equipped to the end that the increased flow of business could be efficiently handled.

"Like that of banks, the business of other concerns increased greatly. This created need for additional funds with which they might operate and at the same availability of goods desired by individuals made it necessary that they borrow in order to make purchases.

"THESE CREDIT needs were satisfied in good part by bank loans, as shown by the fact that loans of Ohio banks increased nearly $225,000,000 during the year ending June 30, 1948, the last date for which statewide figures are available.

"In financing business activities, Ohio banks were careful to avoid loans which would contribute to inflation but to make those which would increase production of scarce goods and materials. In lending to individuals banks exercised care to observe the credit restrictions imposed by the federal government."

Pointing out that agriculture is an important element in Ohio, Auch stated that particular effort was made to see that the financial needs of farmers were fulfilled.

"Banks are especially interested in aiding in providing credit for soil improvement programs," he said. "These not only preserve the fertility of the soil over the years, but increase production and farm income as they are being carried out."

Ohioans continued to entrust their funds to banks in larger amounts, as shown by an increase of well over a quarter of a billion dollars in the deposits of Ohio banks during the last half of 1947 and the first half of 1948.

"Total deposits of the banks of the state approached seven billion dollars during 1948, standing at $6,828,000,000 on June 30. In line with this trend, there were numerous increases of capital, which produce greater protection for depositors," Auch added.

125 Delegates Seen Attending Institute Here

About 125 visitors from out-of-town are expected to attend the mid-year institute of the Senior Youth Methodist Fellowship to be held Saturday in Circleville First Methodist church.

Coming from all churches in the Chillicothe district, the delegates are scheduled to convene at 9:30 a. m.

Operating under the theme of "Methodist Youth Advances with Christ," the institute will have as dean, the Rev. John Taylor.

Rev. Mr. Taylor said Thursday there would be six separate, classes for institutors and a single class for advisers.

Those teaching classes are: Dr. Rollin Walker, well known writer and instructor of Bible at Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware; the Rev. Arthur M. Shenefelt of London; the Rev. Charles Elkjer of Kingston; Dr. George

M. Wilson, district superintendent of Chillicothe district; the Rev. Charles Cooley, leader of Wesley Foundation Work, Ohio university, Athens; the Rev. Carl Pierson, conference youth leader.

The Rev. Glenn Copeland, minister of Grace Methodist church, Springfield, will be the speaker at a 5 p. m. banquet.

REV. MR. Copeland recently attended the World Council of churches conference held at Amsterdam, Holland. He will bring many interesting experiences of his trip and observations of conditions in Europe at the present time.

While the institute is for young people who are in the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades, and those who have finished high school, local intermediate young people have been urged to attend by the Rev. Elisha Kneisley, pastor of the host church.

Ohio Bankers Survey Activities During '48

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13.—Expansion and improvement of services to customers and the public were an important part of the activities of Ohio banks during 1948, according to David M. Auch, executive manager of the Ohio Bankers Association.

"This was accomplished in part through enlargement and modernization of bank buildings and equipment and in part through development of new and expanded services of various types," he said.

"During and after the war, Auch said, "the volume of business handled by banks increased to the point where banking quarters and mechanical aids to good services became inadequate. As materials and other items became available, new buildings were erected and old ones modernized and re-equipped to the end that the increased flow of business could be efficiently handled.

"Like that of banks, the business of other concerns increased greatly. This created need for additional funds with which they might operate and at the same availability of goods desired by individuals made it necessary that they borrow in order to make purchases.

"THESE CREDIT needs were satisfied in good part by bank loans, as shown by the fact that loans of Ohio banks increased nearly $225,000,000 during the year ending June 30, 1948, the last date for which statewide figures are available.

"In financing business activities, Ohio banks were careful to avoid loans which would contribute to inflation but to make those which would increase production of scarce goods and materials. In lending to individuals banks exercised care to observe the credit restrictions imposed by the federal government."

Pointing out that agriculture is an important element in Ohio, Auch stated that particular effort was made to see that the financial needs of farmers were fulfilled.

"Banks are especially interested in aiding in providing credit for soil improvement programs," he said. "These not only preserve the fertility of the soil over the years, but increase production and farm income as they are being carried out."

Ohioans continued to entrust their funds to banks in larger amounts, as shown by an increase of well over a quarter of a billion dollars in the deposits of Ohio banks during the last half of 1947 and the first half of 1948.

"Total deposits of the banks of the state approached seven billion dollars during 1948, standing at $6,828,000,000 on June 30. In line with this trend, there were numerous increases of capital, which produce greater protection for depositors," Auch added.

125 Delegates Seen Attending Institute Here

About 125 visitors from out-of-town are expected to attend the mid-year institute of the Senior Youth Methodist Fellowship to be held Saturday in Circleville First Methodist church.

Coming from all churches in the Chillicothe district, the delegates are scheduled to convene at 9:30 a. m.

Operating under the theme of "Methodist Youth Advances with Christ," the institute will have as dean, the Rev. John Taylor.

Rev. Mr. Taylor said Thursday there would be six separate classes for institutors and a single class for advisers.

Those teaching classes are: Dr. Rollin Walker, well known writer and instructor of Bible at Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware; the Rev. Arthur M. Shenefelt of London; the Rev. Charles Elkjer of Kingston; Dr. George

M. Wilson, district superintendent of Chillicothe district; the Rev. Charles Cooley, leader of Wesley Foundation Work, Ohio university, Athens; the rev. Carl Pierson, conference youth leader.

The Rev. Glenn Copeland, minister of Grace Methodist church, Springfield, will be the speaker at a 5 p. m. banquet.

REV. MR. Copeland recently attended the World Council of churches conference held at Amsterdam, Holland. He will bring many interesting experiences of his trip and observations of conditions in Europe at the present time.

While the institute is for young people who are in the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth grades, and those who have finished high school, local intermediate young people have been urged to attend by the Rev. Elisha Kneisley, pastor of the host church.

HIS POSITION IS UNIQUE

Surrealist Dali Raps Followers Of Picasso

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—Yessir, it's quite true that if Salvador Dali, the surrealist painter, had his choice between a Persian rug and a Picasso painting, he'd take the rug.

Even art circles were incredulous when word seeped back from Spain, whence Dali has just arrived by easy stages, that the master of the melting watch had committed such heresy against Pablo Picasso, a fellow Spaniard long since deified as the fountainhead of modern art.

But it is true, too true. In a mixture of Catalanian Spanish, menu French and mangled English, Dali today reaffirmed his apostasy by saying the equivalent of "Gimme the rug."

Abstract art, says Dali, is decorative art and therefore a secondary art, somewhat akin to interior decorating.

These are fightin' and feudin' words in modern art circles. But Dali did pour a little oil on the raging waters.

In his suite at the St. Regis, where he hangs his beret when in New York, Dali said he ranks Picasso as "one of the greatest geniuses of our period."

If there seems to be some slight contradiction here, it is merely that Dali believes Picasso mastered the art of painting before he took to his abstractions.

BUT DALI swears that Picasso's abstract followers are such lazy, good-for-nothing hams they shouldn't be allowed to paint a mouse on a toothpaste ad.

Dali said (in translation): "If, for my home I am asked to choose between one of the best Oriental rugs and an abstract painting by Picasso, I would choose the rug!"

Dali wouldn't use modern abstract art. Speaking with the righteous air of a juvenile delinquent turned state's evidence, Dali said such art was at best decorative but incapable of expressing "beeg ideas of philosophy."

Abstract art confuses the public, piously asserted this artist whose own masterpieces have had the layman and many art critics in a fog for the past 25 years.

His melting watches, rubber-legged pianos and ladies with built-in bureau drawers in place of brassieres have had a tendency not only to confuse but confound the public. He declared:

"My position, she is unique. She is unique because I have master the techniques of painting. These modern painters, these abstractionists! Zut! They are lazy bunch. Too lazy to master technique."

Anybody can be an abstract artist, in his opinion. It isn't difficult, since it requires no knowledge of anatomy, color, perspective or draftsmanship. Roughly translated, he said, offering the ultimate insult:

"They ought to be designing chintz!"

Tito Aide Raps Red Critics

BELGRADE, Jan. 13—The Yugoslavian navy minister charged today that Cominform critics of Marshal Tito are the ones guilty of "abandoning the true principles of Communism."

Minister Vico Kristulovitch, in a speech at the Adriatic port of Split said:

"The other peoples' democraties are using low lies and slander against Yugoslavia."

He denied that Tito or the Yugoslav Communists, who have been denounced by the Soviet-led Cominform, have strayed from Communism.

Circleville GI Gets Army Duty In Kobe, Japan

Pvt. George E. Davis, 217 West Huston Street, Circleville, is now serving with the occupation forces in Kobe, Japan.

Davis is serving as a security guard with Company "I", 3rd Battalion, 24th Infantry Regiment at Kobe Base. This unit has the responsibility of guarding food and supplies in the many warehouses at Kobe Base.

Davis entered the Army in June 1941 at Fort Hayes and arrived in Japan in October 1946. While in civilian life, he attended school in Circleville. He was also employed by a construction company in Circleville as a clerk.

Kobe Base, located in Kobe City, has long been known as Japan's leading seaport and is now playing a major part in the occupation by acting as a supply point for occupation forces in southern Japan.

Davis himself, is playing a large part in accomplishing the mission of Kobe Base. He holds

Ebright Hand Tipped In Move

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—Archer E. Reilly, of Columbus, who was research secretary for former Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, joined the staff of State Treasurer Don H. Ebright today as "assistant to the treasurer."

The hiring of Reilly, a master of speech writing, was generally understood to be Ebright's first step in a still unannounced campaign for the 1950 Republic nomination for governor.

The new assistant formerly was a member of the political science faculty of Ohio State university, where he received both his bachelor's and master's degrees. He still serves on the staff of Franklin university.

Suitcase Bomb Kills 2 In Cairo

CAIRO, Jan. 13—Two persons were killed and 22 injured today when a "suitcase bomb" exploded in front of the Egyptian court of appeals building here.

Most of those injured were police guards at the building.

Police arrested a man who allegedly attempted to escape from the scene after depositing a suitcase which contained the explosive charge.

The suspect was believed to be a member of the Moslem Brotherhood, outlaw fanatic group one of whose members assassinated the late Premier Nokrashy Pasha last month.

The Brotherhood has been bitter over the government's conduct in Palestine, the Sudan, and its relations with Britain.

Abstract art, says Dali, is decorative art and therefore a secondary art, somewhat akin to interior decorating.

These are fightin' and feudin' words in modern art circles. But Dali did pour a little oil on the raging waters.

In his suite at the St. Regis, where he hangs his beret when in New York, Dali said he ranks Picasso as "one of the greatest geniuses of our period."

If there seems to be some slight contradiction here, it is merely that Dali believes Picasso mastered the art of painting before he took to his abstractions.

BUT DALI swears that Picasso's abstract followers are such lazy, good-for-nothing hams they shouldn't be allowed to paint a moustache on a toothpaste ad.

Dali said (in translation): "If, for my home I am asked to choose between one of the best Oriental rugs and an abstract painting by Picasso, I would choose the rug!"

Dali wouldn't use modern abstract art. Speaking with the righteous air of a juvenile delinquent turned state's evidence, Dali said such art was at best decorative but incapable of expressing "beeg ideas of philosophy."

Abstract art confuses the public, piously asserted this artist whose own masterpieces have had the layman and many art critics in a fog for the past 25 years.

His melting watches, rubber-legged pianos and ladies with built-in bureau drawers in place of brassieres have had a tendency not only to confuse but confound the public. He declared:

"My position, she is unique. She is unique because I have master the techniques of painting. These modern painters, these abstractionists! Zut! They are lazy bunch. Too lazy to master technique."

Anybody can be an abstract artist, in his opinion. It isn't difficult, since it requires no knowledge of anatomy, color, perspective or draftsmanship. Roughly translated, he said, offering the ultimate insult:

"They ought to be designing chintz!"

Tito Aide Raps
Red Critics

BELGRADE, Jan. 13—The Yugoslavian navy minister charged today that Cominform critics of Marshal Tito are the ones guilty of "abandoning the true principles of Communism."

Minister Vico Kristulovitch, in a speech at the Adriatic port of Split said:

"The other peoples' democracies are using low lies and slander against Yugoslavia."

He denied that Tito or the Yugoslav Communists, who have been denounced by the Soviet-led Cominform, have strayed from Communism.

Circleville GI
Gets Army Duty
In Kobe, Japan

Pvt. George E. Davis, 217 West Huston Street, Circleville, is now serving with the occupation forces in Kobe, Japan.

Davis is serving as a security guard with Company "I", 3rd Battalion, 24th Infantry Regiment at Kobe Base. This unit has the responsibility of guarding food and supplies in the many warehouses at Kobe Base.

Davis entered the Army in June 1941 at Fort Hayes and arrived in Japan in October 1946. While in civilian life, he attended school in Circleville. He was also employed by a construction company in Circleville as a clerk.

Kobe Base, located in Kobe City, has long been known as Japan's leading seaport and is now playing a major part in the occupation by acting as a supply point for occupation forces in southern Japan.

Davis himself, is playing a large part in accomplishing the mission of Kobe Base. He holds

Ebright Hand
Tipped In Move

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—Archer E. Reilly, of Columbus, who was research secretary for former Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, joined the staff of State Treasurer Don H. Ebright today as "assistant to the treasurer."

The hiring of Reilly, a master of speech writing, was generally understood to be Ebright's first step in a still unannounced campaign for the 1950 Republican nomination for governor.

The new assistant formerly was a member of the political science faculty of Ohio State university, where he received both his bachelor's and master's degrees. He still serves on the staff of Franklin university.

Suitcase Bomb
Kills 2 In Cairo

CAIRO, Jan. 13—Two persons were killed and 22 injured today when a "suitcase bomb" exploded in front of the Egyptian court of appeals building here.

Most of those injured were police guards at the building.

Police arrested a man who allegedly attempted to escape from the scene after depositing a suitcase which contained the explosive charge.

The suspect was believed to be a member of the Moslem Brotherhood, outlaw fanatic group, one of whose members assassinated the late Premier Nokrashy Pasha last month.

The brotherhood has been bitter over the government's conduct in Palestine, the Sudan, and its relations with Britain.

$6 MILLION IS GRAND TOTAL

Late Contributors Help Dem Party Out Of Red

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—More than $6 million was spent by the four major parties in the presidential campaign with a flood of post-election contributions wiping out a threatened Democratic deficit.

Four cabinet officials and numerous other government heads, as well as judges and financiers, were among those who contributed to the Democratic campaign coffers after President Truman's surprise victory.

They included Secretary of Defense Forrestal, Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, Postmaster General Donaldson, Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, White House Military Aide Harry H. Vaughan, Bernard Baruch, Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, and numerous others.

Brannan and Donaldson were among the administration officials who campaign actively for President Truman.

Campaign reports filed with Congress under the Federal Corrupt Practices Act listed the names of all contributors and the funds received and spent during the 1948 presidential campaign.

THEY REVEALED that the national committee of the Republican, Democratic, Progressive and States' Rights parties spent $6,391,864 in the campaign, with all of the ending the year in the black.

The Republicans spent $2,736,334, the top amount, in their unsuccessful campaign to elect Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Next came the Democrats with $2,127,296, the Progressive Party of Henry A. Wallace, $1,366,153, and the Thurmond-Wright States' Rights Party, $162,081.

A flood of late contributions saved the Democratic Party from a threatened deficit and enabled it to end the year with a balance of $51,432. The Democratic national committee revealed that from Oct. 28 to Dec. 31, it took in $602,346.

Committee officials previously revealed that some of the checks it received after the election were dated prior to Nov. 2.

The Democratic national congressional committee reported that Forrestal contributed $250. His check was dated Nov. 9, a week after the election. Another check for $100, dated Nov. 20, was received from Francis B. Sayre, head of the United Nations Trusteeship Council.

The Democratic national committee listed these noteworthy post-election contributions, with the date on which they were received:

Harry H. Vaughan, the President's military aide, Nov. 3, $1,000; Federal Judge Edward M. Curran, Nov. 8, $250; Bernard Baruch, financier and elder statesman, Nov. 10, $250; Mayor Curley of Boston, Nov. 16, $500; Secretary of Commerce Sawyer, Nov. 30, $500; Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, Nov. 23, $500; Postmaster General Donaldson, Nov. 30, $200.

Gov. Jim McCord, Tenn., Dec. 1, $100; George J. Schoeneman, internal revenue commissioner, Nov. 17, $150; William A. Julian, treasurer of the United States, Nov. 17, $1,000; Preston Delano, comptroller of currency, Nov. 19, $100; Navy Undersecretary Kenney, Nov. 22, $1,000.

The CIO Political Action Committee took in $493,450 and spent $532,453 while the AFL's League received $343,293 and spent $312,196.

Venice Claims
Suicide Gulps
'Atomic Pill'

VENICE, Jan. 13—A story that an Austrian engineer committed suicide by swallowing an "atomic pill" has excited Venice and assertedly so frightened authorities that they buried him without an autopsy—to avoid an explosion of the "pill" within the body.

The victim was identified as Edward Selzer, described as an engineer and "man of the world" who took his life after heavy losses at the Venice gambling casino.

Selzer was buried without post-mortem—the first suicide to be so interred in the long history of Venice—after repeated warnings by his self-described mistress, Alsa Bassi.

She claimed that she and Selzer had been making "revolutionary discoveries in atomic energy."

Her story was that Selzer had gambled in an effort to obtain funds to exploit an invention and finally "took an atomic pill" which would blow up the hospital if an autopsy were performed.

Venice authorities said the woman, who claims to be the wife of a New York millionaire from whom she is separated, has been in hysterics for the last 48 hours. They expressed some doubts about the whole affair—but buried Selzer without ceremony.

CLEVELAND, Jan. 13—Herman Thomas probably is the happiest and most surprised man in Cleveland today.

Thomas, 42, returned home from work last night and found his wife not feeling well. A few minutes later she went to bed and began giving birth to a baby. Thomas immediately called police.

After Patrolmen Louis J. Kunchik and Edward J. Smrdel delivered the baby, Thomas revealed that the whole thing was a complete surprise to him. His wife, a heavy set woman, also said she had no knowledge of her prospective motherhood. There are five other children in the Thomas family.

WAR PRISONERS

The question of the repatriation of German prisoners of war held in Russia is one of human relations in which the Western nations, by their nature, are deeply interested. It also is tied up with the basic issue of the keeping of pledges among the nations.

That the United States intends to press the question of pledges was indicated in recent public announcements. In his speech expressing the view that certain Russians seek an understanding, the President declared that the pledges made by Russia at Yalta and at Potsdam had been violated. This was followed quickly by departmental statements listing specific agreements which had been broken. With the revival of the German prisoner matter, this sequence of events seems to disclose a calculated plan to establish a case of breach of faith against Russia.

Whom are we seeking to convince? In most of the capitals of the world the lack of consistency between the words and the acts of the Soviet government is well recognized. The most obvious exception is in Moscow, where it is repeatedly denied that any pledge has been broken. If the Western powers could ever get Moscow to admit failure to keep an agreement, either willful or by force of circumstance, the way to understanding might be much easier.

As things now are, lack of confidence in the Russian word is a shadow across every conference between East and West, and the shadow is made deeper by the persistent Russian air of injured innocence when promises are mentioned.

THE FOX HUNT

Another British tradition is threatened—fox hunting. A bill to outlaw it has been introduced in Parliament, and is said to have 400 supporters, many more than a majority of the House of Commons. This would take away much color from the English countryside. Hunters in red coats, galloping over hedges after the hounds, are as regular a feature of the scenery as wheat fields in North Dakota. Whether the foxes feel as kindly toward the mass of numbers brought together for the undoing of a single fox, is another question.

The squires and the sportsmen are probably no longer a majority in Parliament, which is now filled with labor leaders, social workers and attorneys. Yet even at that the anti-fox hunting bill may not have easy sledding. Tradition is still strong in England.

These Days

The Federal Grand Jurors' Association of the eastern district of New York got up one of those questionnaires which asked a lot of "yes and no" questions, and queried high school teachers, professional engineers, college students and miscellaneous human beings on the subject of the grand jury and how it operates. The answers were discouraging. No matter by what process the answers were calculated, they give evidence of an astonishing lack of knowledge of one of the most valuable defenses against tyranny.

I was particularly interested in the replies to their question, "what is an indictment?" Seventeen percent of the miscellaneous, 12 percent of the college students and 35 percent of the engineers thought that an indictment was evidence of guilt; astonishingly, 11 percent thought that an indictment was evidence of innocence.

This explains in a large measure why so many believe that a man is guilty even if he is interrogated by a congressional committee, or why so many are sure that a man, like Alger Hiss, is done for if a grand jury indicts him. The old Anglo-Saxon dictum that a man is innocent until he is proved guilty seems to have passed out of our political thought along with many other fine ideas in these troubled and confused times.

Of course, in the totalitarian countries, a man is guilty if the government says so, with or without trial. Our assumption is that the law exists not only to punish the guilty but to protect the innocent. Our law deals with the individual man and his inalienable rights defined by the Constitution; the totalitarian concept is that the law is an instrument devised by the state, bendable to the purposes of the state.

The grand jury is an ancient institution in Anglo-Saxon jurisprudence. It is a body of "peers," that is, equals in rights and rank, who determine not whether an individual is guilty or innocent but whether he is to be made subject to a trial.

The indictment is merely a formal accusation. The grand jury assures itself that the evidence before it is sufficient not to convince of guilt but to justify an accusation. In gathering such evidence, the grand jury is permitted a latitude wider than will be tolerated at a trial.

Grand jury proceedings are in private and secret; a trial is public. The grand jury is not governed by the rules of evidence and therefore may have more information than can be set forth in court. Should a great public wrong need to be righted, yet it not be possible for the grand jury to indict anyone, it may hand down a presentment, stating the case and recommending public action, even needed legislation. In practice, the grand jury may protect individuals from the malevolence of their neighbors or even the government.

This much ought to be clear: The grand jury is not a body of professional lawyers. The grand jury consists of laymen, theoretically the same kind of men as those who are brought before them. They are not, therefore, concerned so much with the law as with the fact. They are charged to discover the truth under circumstances easier than exist at a trial.

A Baby Disorder That Causes Mother Great Deal of Worry

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

CONSTIPATION in babies is, as a rule, more troublesome to the mother than to the young child if parents are given to worrying about constipation in their baby. It is a good thing to know that, in infants, so long as the baby is not sick, is contented, and there is no noted swelling of the abdomen, nothing need be done about infrequent bowel action. The use of suppositories and enemas should be avoided unless recommended by the doctor for some special condition.

In babies who are not breast-fed (and all babies are better off if they are breast-fed), constipation may develop because the baby is receiving too much protein in the milk mixture and extra sugar may be required. The giving of prune pulp does not seem to aid in this condition.

Child Cries

Infrequent bowel movements in babies and young children may be due to what is known as an anal fissure, that is, a crack in the lining membrane of the lower bowel. When this condition is present, the child screams and cries when a bowel movement occurs. The child becomes afraid of the pain and so may not make the necessary effort to have the bowel movement. There may be blood in the bowel movement.

This condition is treated by keeping the movements soft and by using some pain-relieving ointment on the fissure. In infants and young children, constipation, when neglected, may interfere with normal weight gain. The condition can be corrected by revising the diet, overcoming anemia, if it is present, and improving the strength of the muscles.

Improper Training

One of the most common causes of constipation is improper training. Too strenuous efforts to train the baby often lead to the development of an antagonistic or negative attitude on the part of the child. He refuses to have his bowel movements so that he can get attention from those around him. Of course, the more he is cajoled, threatened, or punished, the worse the condition becomes. Parents must therefore learn not to be too greatly concerned about the irregularity of bowel habits that will correct themselves with proper diet.

In some older children, a lack of fluids may be one of the chief causes of hard movements. Giving larger amounts of fluids will not, as a rule, relieve the constipation; in fact, sometimes it may make it worse. Usually, in every mild case of constipation, correction can be brought about with simple treatment.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. D.: I have rapid heart beats, bloated and a lot of gas and belching. I am nervous at times. Could this be due to change of life?

Answer: It is not likely that your symptoms are due to change of life. It might be due to some other cause, such as bowel and nervous disorders. You should have a careful study made by your physician.

SYNOPSIS
Deb Randall senses intrigue when in the dark hallway of Beecroft, her grandmother, Molly Burton's palatial New England estate, she hears someone whisper, "It's your job to get those papers." Molly is entertaining a group of men scientists working on atomic research at a nearby university. Among them are Clive Warner, who had cruelly killed Deb during the war, and Tim Grant, co-heir of Beecroft. Women guests are colorful, some eccentric, some "mysterious."

CHAPTER SEVEN

THE TEMPEST of emotion was passing but it still shook Debby like the thunder of a storm diminishing in the distance, still caught at her breath. She obeyed the hand on her arm like an automaton under remote control. Tim Grant dried the bench with his handkerchief.

"Sit here."

"Still leatherneck technique?" she inquired with an unsteady attempt at flippancy.

"Not this time. It isn't a command, it's a request." She shook her head in response to the cigarettes he offered. "Mind if I smoke?" Another shake.

Silence, a curious throbbing silence. The light of his cigarette glowed and faded. Her breath came unevenly as she watched the thin spiral of smoke rise and drift away like a fairy spreading gauzy violet skirts in flight. She tried to speak but her voice wouldn't come. As if he sensed her attempt he commented:

"The white, vine-draped colonnade, the game house at the end, look as if they belonged in a world of magic in this light. It wouldn't surprise me to see a mermaid rise from the swimming pool in front of it."

"I can see a figure pacing the lawn between g-game house and pool." She cleared her voice. "I sound as if I stuttered. I don't really. It's—it's a hang-over from my weep-fest. He, perhaps it's a she, is smoking."

"If you don't, you know the consequences to you."

The threat echoed through her memory, started the quiver in her shivers. Was the person who had whispered in the bay meeting a conspirator at the game house? Should she do anything about it? "You are shivering. You would be cold after that emotional crack-up. Let's go in."

"No. I hear voices on the terrace. I'm a sight. My nose and cheeks feel spotlight red, my eyes burn. I'll stay here till they cool to normal. P-please go and join the card players, Mr. Grant."

"Doesn't our relationship—if only by marriage—warrant our dropping Mr. and Miss formality? You didn't think I suggested a return to the house in self-interest, I hope. Not a chance when I am sitting pretty with a lovely girl in the moonlight. Ready now to tell all? Why the weep-fest?" He clasped his hands about one knee, strong, steady hands with long, long fingers.

His voice was rough with anger. She watched him stride away. Why had she said she wouldn't marry him? He hadn't asked her, had he? Was it a vibration of the brain storm she had just sensitive fingers. They had been amazingly gentle when they touched her bruised lip, she remembered.

"That was my miserable cold departing in a typhoon of temperament, the way a thunderstorm ends in a terrific crash. I don't know why it rolled up when I was so happy to be with Molly B.—she is such a grand person—or whence. Lucky I was the only wreck in it."

"Don't be too sure of that. Sometime I'll tell you what it did to me. What started it? Must have been something. You were the life of the party at dinner."

"I don't know, honestly. I don't know. After I left Washington I had a week of New York whirl with friends and a handsome check from Molly B. to spend on clothes—and did I spend it! After dinner all at once I seemed to go to pieces inside. I still don't understand why."

"I do. Reaction. From having every waking moment packed with responsibility—I'll bet you even dreamed of your work—you see I've heard of your job, you now find yourself a lady of leisure with a flu hang-over."

"Let's hope that your diagnosis is correct. I would hate to think of myself as a chronic burster-into-tears. Let's tune in on another station. What a gorgeous night. So light I can see the roofs and chimneys of the large summer places across the lake, the outline of the hills and the twinkle of star reflections in the water."

"Look at this house. The lighted windows put the stars out of business with their shine. I hadn't realized what a huge place Beecroft is. What do you think of Judge Lander?"

"As a man or as the money-raising trustee of the college? On the last count he is a wizard."

"You're telling me as if I didn't catch the how-much-is-he-good-for gleam in his eyes the first time we met before he knew who I was. You don't believe with him that I am here to cage in on this real estate, do you?"

"It wouldn't be unnatural for you to want the house your grandfather built, it was your mother's home until she married. Now that we are on the subject this is as good a time as any to observe that should you as a last, desperate expedient think of marrying me to secure the estate, forget it, I have other plans."

"I hadn't thought of the marriage solution till the Judge mentioned it, but, now that you have definitely turned me down, I know what the score is. Okay, if that is the way you feel about it."

His voice was rough with anger. She watched him stride away. Why had she said she wouldn't marry him? He hadn't asked her, had he? Was it a vibration of the brain storm she had just

KNOWLEDGE of the pattern or "matrix" for the various types of squeeze plays is essential to their development, unless a player expects simply to stumble into one through the luck of the cards. The double squeeze particularly requires the location of threat cards in proper positions as related to the higher cards of the opponents which they menace.

Bidding only slightly different from that got several other pairs of a tournament into the same contract. Some made an extra trick and some didn't. Those who were successful put through a neat double squeeze. Those who failed tried the same maneuver but didn't make it work.

In several cases the lead was the spade 10, which the Q won. Then came the finessed club 10 and club 9, followed by the heart Q, four more spade tricks and then the club A. East pared down to two diamonds and two hearts. When West played the club J, still holding the K, he also retained three diamonds. Hence the declarer had to lose a diamond at the end.

A successful declarer took the heart A early, leaving only the J as a threat against the K, and also the diamond K so that the last spade led was to the eleventh trick. At that stage the cards were the spade 8, diamond 8 and club Q with North, heart K and diamond Q-J with East, heart J and diamond A-2 with South, and the diamond 9-5 and club K with West. The spade brought a discard of a diamond from East, who had to keep his heart K to guard the J, which was then thrown off. Now West was ruined. Obligated to keep the club K to defend against the dummy's Q, he tossed a diamond. The diamond 8 to the A then killed both the Q and the 9, and the 2 took the final trick.

Old Man Wartels, weighed down with business worries, consulted the family physician, who prescribed a two-month rest in the sunshine of the Arizona desert. "Can't afford," snapped Wartels decisively. "All right," said the doctor. "So you use psychology. Close your eyes tight for two hours every day, and imagine you're lying naked under the burning Arizona sun."

Three days later, Wartels' wife phoned the doctor from their Washington Heights apart-

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
A. D.: I have rapid heart beats, bloated and a lot of gas and belching. I am nervous at times. Could this be due to change of life?

Answer: It is not likely that your symptoms are due to change of life. It might be due to some other cause, such as bowel and nervous disorders. You should have a careful study made by your physician.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

It may only be coincidence that the day after the California snow three men were arrested trying to smuggle refugees into Florida. They are now being tested for their citrus content.

Weather experts are unable to explain violets growing in Connecticut while California shivers. Some suspect disgruntled Republicans of messing with the seasons.

Incidentally Gov. Thurmond and Dewey definitely will attend the inauguration. It appears that each planned as far back as July to be in Washington on Inauguration Day.

SYNOPSIS
Deb Randall senses intrigue when in the dark hallway of Beechcroft, her grandmother, Molly Burton's palatial New England estate, she hears someone whisper, "It's your job to get those papers." Molly is entertaining a group of men scientists working on atomic research at a nearby university. Among them are Clive Warner, who had cruelly killed Deb during the war, and Tim Grant, co-chair of Beechcroft. Women guests are colorful, some eccentric, some "mysterious."

CHAPTER SEVEN

THE TEMPEST of emotion was passing but it still shook Debby like the thunder of a storm diminishing in the distance, still caught at her breath. She obeyed the hand on her arm like an automaton under remote control. Tim Grant dried the bench with his handkerchief.

"Sit here."

"Still a leatherneck technique?" she inquired with an uneasy attempt at flippancy.

"Not this time. It isn't a command, it's a request." She shook her head in response to the cigarette he offered. "Mind if I smoke?" Another shake.

Silence, a curious throbbing silence. The light of his cigarette glowed and faded. Her breath came unevenly as she watched the thin spiral of smoke rise and drift away like a fairy spreading gauzy violet skirts in flight. She tried to speak but her voice wouldn't come. As if he sensed her attempt he commented:

"The white, vine-draped colonnade, the game house at the end, look as if they belonged in a world of magic in this light. It wouldn't surprise me to see a mermaid rise from the swimming pool in front of it."

"I can see a figure pacing the lawn between g-game house and pool." She cleared her voice. "I sound as if I stuttered. I don't really. It's—it's a hang-over from my weep-fest. He, perhaps it's a she, is smoking."

"If you don't, you know the consequences to you."

The threat echoed through her memory, started the quiescent shivers. Was the person who had whispered in the bay meeting a conspirator at the game house? Should she do anything about it? She was shivering. You would be colder after that emotional crack-up. Let's go in.

"No. I hear voices on the terrace. I'm a sight. My nose and cheeks feel spotlight red, my eyes burn. I'll stay here till they cool to normal. P-please go and join the card players, Mr. Grant."

"Doesn't our relationship—if only by marriage—warrant our dropping Mr. and Miss formality? You didn't think I suggested a return to the house in self-interest, I hope. Not a chance when I am sitting pretty with a lovely girl in the moonlight. Ready now to tell all? Why the weep-fest?" He clasped his hands about one knee, strong, steady hands with long, sensitive fingers. They had been amazingly gentle when they touched her bruised lip, she remembered. "That was my miserable cold departing in a typhoon of temperament, the way a thunderstorm ends up a terrific crash. I don't know why it rolled up when I was so happy to be with Molly B.—she is such a grand person—or whence, Lucky I was the only wreck in its path."

"Don't be too sure of that. Sometime I'll tell you what it did to me. What started it? Must have been something. You were the life of the party at dinner."

"I don't know, honestly, I don't know. After I left Washington I had a week of New York whirl with friends and a handsome check from Molly B. to spend on clothes—and did I spend it! After dinner all at once I seemed to go to pieces inside. I still don't understand why."

"I do. Reaction. From having every waking moment packed with responsibility—I'll bet you even dreamed of your work—you see I've heard of your job, you now find yourself a lady of leisure with a flu hang-over."

"Let's hope that your diagnosis is correct. I would hate to think of myself as a chronic buster-in-tears. Let's tune in on another station. What a gorgeous night. So light I can see the roofs and chimneys of the large summer places across the lake, the outline of the hills and the twinkle of star reflections in the water."

"Look at this house. The lighted windows put the stars out of business with their shine. I hadn't realized what a huge place Beechcroft is. What do you think of Judge Lander?"

"As a man or as the money-raising trustee of the college? On the last count he is a wizard."

"You're telling me as if I didn't catch the how-much-is-he-good-for gleam in his eyes the first time we met before he knew who I was. You don't believe with him that I am here to cage in on this real estate, do you?"

"It wouldn't be unnatural for you to want the house your grandfather built, it was your mother's home until she married. Now that we are on the subject this is as good a time as any to observe that should you as a last, desperate expedient think of marrying me to secure the estate, forget it, I have other plans."

"I hadn't thought of the marriage solution till the Judge mentioned it, but now that you have definitely turned me down, I know what the score is. Okay, if that is the way you feel about it."

His voice was rough with anger. She watched him stride away. Why had she said she wouldn't marry him? He hadn't asked her, had he? Was it a vibration of the brain storm she had just passed through? She forced back a sob. Damn. Was she about to go to pieces again?

He had stopped to speak to a man in white. Clive Warner. Now he was hurrying toward her. She couldn't talk with him. Where could she go to avoid him? She would have to wait him to reach the house. Better remain where she was and take it. She would have to sometime. Apparently he was set for a showdown. Unfortunately it should flash its coming-up number while little creepy child from her emotional bings still slithered along her veins.

"What's the idea running out on the party?" Warner inquired as he dropped to the bench beside her. "Why did you beat it when I spoke to you in the hall? There is a lot that needs saying between us. You've been crying. Because of me? You don't hate me, do you, Deb?"

She remembered the tone with its suggestion of male invincibility. Crying because of him? How dared he think that? He was still sensationally good-looking with his fair hair and small mustache, and large brown eyes which could have the appealing softness of a setter's, when appealing softness was called for.

"Why don't you answer? I came back to the old job because of you. Going to forgive me, aren't you, Debby? Let me start where we left off?" His wheedling question followed her mental summing up almost as if he had waited for her verdict.

"Forgive you for what, Clive? For saving me from a life of unhappiness? Gratitude is the word that fits."

"Is that so?" He chewed at a corner of his mustache, a habit when he was angry that she remembered. "Because Odile let me down? It wouldn't have happened with you. It wasn't my fault that she wanted a divorce and got it."

Did he really think that was the reason she distrusted him? Had he forgotten that he had walked out on her seven days before they were to be married? He was putting on an act and who knew better than she that he was an expert at cajolery?

"It will be a shock to you, but I am not interested in you and your one-time wife, Clive."

"Is Grant responsible for that? I saw him beat it through the hall and out the door after you."

"Grant? Do you mean Tim Grant? Where did you get that absurd idea? I had forgotten he was in the world till a few hours ago when Molly B. told me he was here to talk business with her."

"That's a phony. How could you help knowing? Recently he came in for half the big Stewart estate, didn't he?"

"I wouldn't know. Better ask him."

SQUEEZE MATRIX VITAL

KNOWLEDGE of the pattern "matrix" for the various types of squeeze plays is essential to their development, unless a player expects simply to stumble into one through the luck of the cards. The double squeeze particularly requires the location of threat cards in proper positions as related to the higher cards of the opponents which they menace.

Bidding only slightly different from that got several other pairs of a tournament into the same contract. Some made an extra trick and some didn't. Those who were successful put through a neat double squeeze. Those who failed tried the same maneuver but didn't make it work.

In several cases the lead was the spade 10, which the Q won. Then came the finessed club 10 and club 9, followed by the heart Q, four more spade tricks and then the club A. East paled down to two diamonds and two hearts. When West played the club J, still holding the K, he also retained three diamonds. Hence the declarer had to lose a diamond at the end.

A successful declarer took the heart A early, leaving only the J as a threat against the K, and also the diamond K so that the last spade led was to the eleven-trick trick. At that stage the cards were the spade 8, diamond 8 and club Q with North, heart K and diamond Q-J with East, heart J and diamond A-2 with South, and the diamond 9-5 and club K with West. The spade brought a discard of a diamond from East, who had to keep his heart K to guard the J, which was then thrown off. Now West was ruined. Obligated to keep the club K to defend against the dummy's Q, he tossed a diamond. The diamond 8 to the A then killed both the Q and the 9, and the 2 took the final trick.

Old Man Wartels, weighed down with business worries, consulted the family physician, who prescribed a two-month rest in the sunshine of the Arizona desert. "Can't afford," snapped Wartels decisively. "All right," said the doctor. "So you use psychology. Close your eyes tight for two hours every day, and imagine you're lying naked under the burning Arizona sun."

Three days later, Wartels' wife phoned the doctor from their Washington Heights apartment. "Come quick," she begged, "my husband is wrapped up in all the blankets with his eyes shut, hollering he's dying." "What of?" asked the doctor. "Sunstroke," said Mrs. Wartels.

Sherburnes Host Papyrus Club

Papyrus Club members were entertained Wednesday in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. L. C. Sherburne of West Mound street.

The program consisted of original compositions read by Mrs. W. W. Robinson, Mrs. Richard Jones, Mrs. B. M. Kellstadt, and Miss Nell Weldon.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sherburne in the dining-room during the social hours. Next club meeting will be with Mrs. A. Hulse Hays of North Court street.

Localites Mark 50th Wedding Anniversary

Golden wedding anniversary of the Rev. and Mrs. Charles W. Speakman of South Pickaway street was observed Wednesday. The couple was honored by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Drinkhouse of Columbus and Mr. and Mrs. Jule Speakman of Alliance, and granddaughters, Nancy Ann Speakman and Sue Ellen Drinkhouse.

A dinner was served at noon in the Court and Main restaurant. In the afternoon brothers and sisters of the Speakmans gathered in their home to celebrate the event. Joining with the family for the occasion were the Rev. and Mrs. Carl L. Wilson of Circleville.

The pastor and Cora Ellen Diehl formerly of Vinton County were married Jan. 12, 1899. Rev. Mr. Speakman operated a grocery store in Chillicothe, prior to his returning to the ministry in the Evangelical church in 1915. He served 30 years in the Southeast Ohio conference and East Ohio conference. In 1945 he retired from active duties and moved to the present location in Circleville.

Coshocton Club Hears Mrs. Ray W. Davis In Address

Mrs. Ray W. Davis has returned to her Circleville home from Coshocton where she addressed the City Federation of that city.

Mrs. Davis, who is state legislative chairman of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, pointed out in her address that "women should know more about legislation and should learn about persons seeking office before voting for them, then keep in touch with them afterward."

The local woman continued "If the women of the General Federation would stand together and vote as a body they could elect anyone to office, even the president." "Never underestimate the power of a woman" is a true saying.

Mrs. Davis spoke of the bills presented by the general and state federations, and of the passing of the bill for the memorial forest near Loudonville.

Mrs. Davis and son, John, were entertained in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Limbach, during their stay in Coshocton. The Limbachs and Davises were neighbors here.

Meet Scheduled

Mrs. Audrey Batterson, dramatics instructor at Circleville high school, has been invited to speak at a meeting scheduled by Monday Club in trustee's room of Memorial hall at 8 p. m. Mrs. Nell Oesterle will serve as chairman for the meeting.

PART III. THE TED LEWIS STORY

‘Is Everybody Happy?’
That’s Famous Theme Song

EDITORS NOTE: Following is the third of a series of articles on the life of Circleville's No. 1 citizen, Ted Lewis. The articles are taken verbatim from a radio script, "The Ohio Story," sponsored recently over a 10-station network by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Narrator was Robert Waldrop.

WALDROP: In the year 1915 the American nation could have used the man from Circleville's particular brand of medicine, but it hadn't yet discovered his magic cure for the blues. Show business people had begun to take notice of him, though, and that's how he happened into the Broadway office of a New York booking agent.

HARRY: (On phone) Sure he's crazy... everybody in this business is crazy... but I never saw anybody crazy enough to get booked into a place called Moose Jaw, Alberta, Canada. Sorry, Eddie... yeah, yeah, if anybody shows up I'll... call you back.

SOUND: Hangs up phone.
HARRY: Well if it ain't Ted Friedman, the Circleville Punkin himself... where you been, kid?

LEWIS: Circleville.
HARRY: At liberty, I s'pose.
LEWIS: Yeah.

HARRY: Got just the spot for you, baby... just the spot... couldn't have come at a better time... wait a minute... they wanted a double.

LEWIS: I could find some-body...

HARRY: Wait a minute, I'm gettin' it... I GOT it! You know a fella named Jack Lewis? Song and dance man... like you. You boys'd lay 'em in the aisles... wait a minute... I'm gettin' it... I'm gettin' it... Lewis and Friedman... no... Lewis and Clark... That's it. You'll be Ted Clark, Lewis and Clark... wait a minute... wait a minute... seems to me there was an act called that once.

LEWIS: There was... hundred years ago... couple explorers.

HARRY: Explorers, huh? Any good? Where'd they play?

LEWIS: Out West.

HARRY: Sticks, huh? Well all right... somebody's probably got a copyright.

LEWIS: Why not make it Lewis and Lewis?

HARRY: Lewis and Lewis, huh? Not bad... not bad... Jack and Ted Lewis. I'll get a hold uh Jack and have you headed out here this afternoon.

LEWIS: Where we playin'?

HARRY: Well, I ain't got the schedule all worked out... nothin' to it, though, nothin' to it... you open in Moose Jaw, Alberta, Sunday night. After that... maybe you swing down to...

LEWIS: Where was that, Harry?

HARRY: You know... Moose Jaw... everybody knows Moose Jaw... some of my best friends are from Moose Jaw.

LEWIS: You ever been in Moose Jaw, Harry?

HARRY: You mean me, personally? No. But dozens of people have been there... dozens.

LEWIS: All right, but Harry... you wouldn't leave a guy stranded in a place like Moose Jaw, wouldja... in case anything went wrong, I mean.

HARRY: What could go wrong? It's a cinch, I tell yuh... a cinch.

ORCHESTRA

SOUND: Tap dance two men. Audience is restless.

LEWIS: (On stage, talking from corner of mouth) Something tells me we aren't layin' 'em in the aisles, Jack.

JACK: Right.

SOUND: Audience "BOOS".

JACK: Better try a vocal, Ted.

LEWIS: Yeah... give him the high sign in the pit.

MUSIC: Piano, "When You Wore A Tulip" Lewis sings.

AUDIENCE: "Boo"... "Take him out"... "You ain't on Broadway now, son"... "this is oose Jaw".

JACK: Come on, Kid, let's get outa here.

ORCHESTRA.

MARY: Harry, who do you know in Moose Jaw, Alberta, Canada?

HARRY: Who, me?

MARY: There's a wire here signed Lewis and Lewis. It seems they're broke and...

HARRY: If they're broke I don't know 'em... never heard of 'em.

MARY: That's what I thought.

ORCHESTRA.

LEWIS: All right, so you won't pay nothin'... will you let me play for what I can get.

TONY: I don't wanna my place loused up.

LEWIS: Look, mister, in the whole world there ain't an act bad enough to louse up this joint so you'd notice it. Lemme take a crack at it, anyhow. I'm only trying to get together the price of a railroad ticket.

TONY: OK, but don't start no fights, understand? The police she's get mad about so many fights allatime.

MUSIC: Clarinet solo, "Oh, You Beautiful Doll" Hot Lewis style.

SOUND: People throwing coins which bounce on floor.

LEWIS: (Stops playing) That's the way, my good people. Keep 'em comin'. Baby needs a NEW pair of shoes.

MUSIC: Lewis resumes playing.

WALDROP: Ted Lewis "sang for his supper", as he calls it, all the way from Moose Jaw to New York City. As he tells about it now, you have the impression that Ted Lewis treasures the memory of those lean years and he's a little proud of the fact that few people who have achieved success in this world have worked longer or struggled harder to reach the top. The Moose Jaw experience was only one of many such incidents in Ted Lewis's life, but as it turned out, it was the last. Back in New York, Ted burst into the agent's office under a good head of steam.

HARRY: Well, if it ain't the Circleville Punkin... where you been, kid?

LEWIS: I been in a place called Moose Jaw, Alberta... some of your best friends came from there, Harry.

HARRY: Tell you what, kid, I'm willin' to forgive and forget.

LEWIS: Nice of yuh, Harry.

HARRY: And to show you that I'm a man of my word, I got a swell spot for you.

LEWIS: Where's it this time,

Eskimo SkuII, Alaska?

HARRY: Now look, kid, I wanted you to have the experience. I wouldn't give you a bum steer. I love yuh like a father.

LEWIS: You're killin' me.

HARRY: Naw, this is on the level. Bessie Clayton... you know, the toe dancer.

LEWIS: Sure I know... she's a star... don't tell me she wants a partner.

HARRY: No, but old man Albee wants to build an act around her. I think all it needs is a band. I got an idea you'd be pretty good in front of a band.

LEWIS: Yeah... sure, Harry, old timer... a jazz band. That's the coming thing.

HARRY: You get a band together. We'll get you a couple of bookings... if you're any good we'll put the act together.

ORCHESTRA.

WALDROP: And that's how it happened that in the season of 1917 Ted Lewis saw his name in lights on the most important marquee in show business... the Palace Theatre in New York. It should have been a triumphant climax to a hectic career... but the trouble was, Ted Lewis was a few years ahead of his time. The jazz age was just beginning but it was old stuff to Ted Lewis. In its feature spot the band did a number called "Tiger Rag."

MUSIC: Lewis "Tiger Rag."

WALDROP: And while Ted and the band were on, backstage was another story...

HANK: Hey... the old man himself.

LIN: Uh... good evening, Mr. Albee... have a chair, sir.

ORCHESTRA.

ALBEE: Mr. Ewart. Who is responsible for that infernal uproar now taking place on my stage?

LIN: Why, ah, I don't exactly know, sir... I'll fire the act immediately, sir.

ALBEE: Never mind. I'll have that pleasure myself.

ORCHESTRA.

WALDROP: The three years that followed the great disappointment at the Palace were critical ones for Ted Lewis.

There was the engagement at Rector's where he won a high silk hat from a hansom cabby; there was the night he ad libbed "Is Everybody Happy?"... a line that brought down the house and made him famous; there were the laughing trombones, and the shoeshine boy from Memphis who was to be responsible for the Lewis classic, "Me and My Shadow". It all began with one of those funny little breaks. The Jazz Age was closer now—it needed only a stirring, toe-tapping song to put it over. Ted tried his hand at song-writing. With the help of a couple of his musical cronies he put together what he hoped would be the words and music to lift the curtain on a style of music that he felt was inevitable. The song met with indifferent success at first... until Ted tried singing it himself. After that it was different. The whole nation took to it. Toes were tapping all over the country. Ted Lewis' star rose like a comet and there was a triumphant return to the Palace Theatre to square the account with Mr. Albee and break all records. The song—well, maybe you've heard it somewhere—

MUSIC: Lewis' "When My Baby Smiles At Me".

And it is that tune which has for years identified Ted Lewis in the music and entertainment world and with his hometown of Circleville.

Perhaps one other line ties him more closely to his birthplace. He never fails, whenever starting out a program, to ask:

"Anybody here from Circleville?"

It is improbable that any one man who has been away from his hometown so long has plugged any harder for that hometown than has Ted Lewis, Circleville's No. 1 citizen.

Gas as an illuminant is older than gas as a fuel.

Lawyers Cited
In Court Case

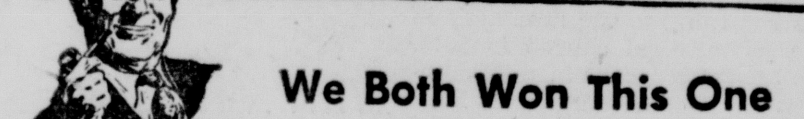

CANTON, Jan. 13—Fed up with legal wrangling, Otis D. Clay, prosperous Stark County farmer, has taken up the battle to prevent his 64-year-old wife, Maude, from obtaining a divorce.

Acting as his own counsel, the 62-year-old Clay is fighting a suit filed by his wife on the grounds of neglect and cruelty. He has filed a cross petition.

Clay began acting as his own counsel yesterday in common pleas court because, as he declared, "I am getting tired of being pushed around and I am going into court swinging. We haven't had so much domestic trouble as we have had lawyer trouble."

Last year shipments of supplies and to products from the steel industry accounted for 12 per cent of the U. S. freight bill.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

We Both Won This One

Blew my top the other morning when I discovered a shirt I'd put on had two buttons missing.

"Joe," the missus says, "do you ever read what you write? For a man who writes newspaper pieces all about tolerance, you sometimes show a lot of race prejudice."

"Race prejudice!" I holler. "No one can accuse me of that." "I mean prejudice against the entire human race," she interrupts with a smile. "Why get mad at the world over two little buttons?" That took the wind out of me.

From where I sit (as I told the missus that evening), a lot of us sometimes get too worked up over little things... little differences of opinion or taste. One person prefers beer or ale, another prefers cider or lemonade. But why criticize the other fellow just because his tastes aren't the same as ours? That sounds more like you, Joe. She laughs, snipping off a thread. (It so happens she was sewing on buttons.)

HARRY: Explorers, huh? Any good? Where'd they play?

LEWIS: Out West... HARRY: Sticks, huh? Well all right... somebody's probably got a copyright.

LEWIS: Why not make it Lewis and Lewis?

HARRY: Lewis and Lewis, huh? Not bad... not bad... Jack and Ted Lewis. I'll get a hold uh Jack and have you headed outa here this afternoon.

LEWIS: Where we playin'?

HARRY: Well, I ain't got the schedule all worked out... nothin' to it, though, nothin' to it... you open in Moose Jaw, Alberta, Sunday night. After that... maybe you swing down to... LEWIS: Where was that, Harry?

HARRY: You know... Moose Jaw... everybody knows Moose Jaw... some of my best friends are from Moose Jaw.

LEWIS: You ever been in Moose Jaw, Harry?

HARRY: You mean me, personally? No. But dozens of people have been there... dozens.

LEWIS: All right, but Harry... you wouldn't leave a guy stranded in a place like Moose Jaw, wouldja... in case anything went wrong, I mean.

HARRY: What could go wrong? It's a cinch, I tell yuh... a cinch.

ORCHESTRA.

SOUND: Tap dance two men. Audience is restless.

LEWIS: (On stage, talking from corner of mouth) Something tells me we aren't layin' 'em in the aisles, Jack.

JACK: Right.

SOUND: Audience "BOOS".

JACK: Better try a vocal, Ted.

LEWIS: Yeah... give him the high sign in the pit.

MUSIC: Piano, "When You Were A Tulip" Lewis sings.

AUDIENCE: "Boo"... "Take him out"... "You ain't on Broadway now, son"... "this is oose Jaw".

JACK: Come on, Kid, let's get outa here.

ORCHESTRA.

MARY: Harry, who do you know in Moose Jaw, Alberta, Canada?

HARRY: Who, me?

MARY: There's a wire here signed Lewis and Lewis. It seems they're broke and... HARRY: If they're broke I don't know 'em... never heard of 'em.

MARY: That's what I thought.

ORCHESTRA.

LEWIS: All right, so you won't pay nothin'... will you let me play for what I can get.

TONY: I don't wanna my place loused up.

LEWIS: Look, mister, in the whole world there ain't an act bad enough to louse up this joint so you'd notice it. Lemme take a crack at it, anyhow. I'm only trying to get together the price of a railroad ticket.

TONY: OK, but don't start no fights, understand? The police she's get mad about so many fights alltime.

MUSIC: Clarinet solo, "Oh, You Beautiful Doll" Hot Lewis style.

SOUND: People throwing coins which bounce on floor.

LEWIS: (Stops playing) That's the way, my good people. Keep 'em comin'. Baby needs a NEW pair of shoes.

MUSIC: Lewis resumes playing.

WALDROP: Ted Lewis "sang for his supper", as he calls it, all the way from Moose Jaw to New York City. As he tells about it now, you have the impression that Ted Lewis treasures the memory of those lean years and he's a little proud of the fact that few people who have achieved success in this world have worked longer or struggled harder to reach the top. The Moose Jaw experience was only one of many such incidents in Ted Lewis's life, but as it turned out, it was the last. Back in New York, Ted burst into the agent's office under a good head of steam.

HARRY: Well, if it ain't the Circleville Punkin... where you been, kid?

LEWIS: I been in a place called Moose Jaw, Alberta... some of your best friends came from there, Harry.

HARRY: Tell you what, kid, I'm willin' to forgive and forget.

LEWIS: Nice of yuh, Harry.

HARRY: And to show you that I'm a man of my word, I got a swell spot for you.

LEWIS: Where's it this time.

HARRY: You know... Moose Jaw... everybody knows Moose Jaw... some of my best friends are from Moose Jaw.

LEWIS: You ever been in Moose Jaw, Harry?

HARRY: You mean me, personally? No. But dozens of people have been there... dozens.

LEWIS: All right, but Harry... you wouldn't leave a guy stranded in a place like Moose Jaw, wouldja... in case anything went wrong, I mean.

HARRY: What could go wrong? It's a cinch, I tell yuh... a cinch.

ORCHESTRA.

SOUND: Tap dance two men. Audience is restless.

LEWIS: (On stage, talking from corner of mouth) Something tells me we aren't layin' 'em in the aisles, Jack.

JACK: Right.

SOUND: Audience "BOOS".

JACK: Better try a vocal, Ted.

responsible for that infernal uproar now taking place on my stage?

LIN: Why, ah, I don't exactly know, sir... I'll fire the act immediately, sir.

ALBEE: Never mind. I'll have that pleasure myself.

ORCHESTRA.

WALDROP: The three years that followed the great disappointment at the Palace were critical ones for Ted Lewis. There was the engagement at Rector's where he won a high silk hat from a hansom cabbie; there was the night he ad libbed "Is Everybody Happy?... a line that brought down the house and made him famous; there were the laughing trombones, and the shoeshine boy from Memphis who was to be responsible for the Lewis classic, "Me and My Shadow". It all began with one of those funny little breaks. The Jazz Age was closer now—it needed only a stirring, toe-tapping song to put it over. Ted tried his hand at song-writing. With the help of a couple of his musical cronies he put together what he hoped would be the words and music to lift the curtain on a style of music that he felt was inevitable. The song met with indifferent success at first — until Ted tried singing it himself. After that it was different. The whole nation took to it. Toes were tapping all over the country. Ted Lewis' star rose like a comet and there was a triumphant return to the Palace Theatre to square the account with Mr. Albee and break all records. The song—well, maybe you've heard it somewhere —

MUSIC: Lewis' "When My Baby Smiles At Me".

And it is that tune which has for years identified Ted Lewis in the music and entertainment world and with his hometown of Circleville.

Perhaps one other line ties him more closely to his birthplace. He never fails, whenever starting out a program, to ask:

"Anybody here from Circleville?"

It is improbable that any one man who has been away from his hometown so long has plugged any harder for that hometown than has Ted Lewis, Circleville's No. 1 citizen.

In Court Case

CANTON, Jan. 13—Fed up with legal wrangling, Otis D. Clay, prosperous Stark County farmer, has taken up the battle to prevent his 64-year-old wife, Maude, from obtaining a divorce.

Acting as his own counsel, the 62-year-old Clay is fighting a suit filed by his wife on the grounds of neglect and cruelty. He has filed a cross petition.

Clay began acting as his own counsel yesterday in common pleas court because, as he declared, "I am getting tired of being pushed around and I am going into court swinging. We haven't had so much domestic trouble as we have had lawyer trouble."

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

We Both Won This One

Blew my top the other morning when I discovered a shirt I'd put on had two buttons missing.

"Joe," the missus says, "do you ever read what you write? For a man who writes newspaper pieces all about tolerance, you sometimes show a lot of race prejudice."

"Race prejudice!" I holler. "No one can accuse me of that." "I mean prejudice against the entire human race," she interrupts with a smile. "Why get mad at the world over two little buttons?" That took the wind out of me.

From where I sit (as I told the missus that evening), a lot of us sometimes get too worked up over little things... little differences of opinion or taste. One person prefers beer or ale, another prefers cider or lemonade. But why criticize the other fellow just because his tastes aren't the same as ours? "That sounds more like you, Joe," she laughs, snipping off a thread. (It so happens she was sewing on buttons.)

Clay Warns Of German Nationalism

Advisers Believe Coup Would Fail

BERLIN, Jan. 13—A pointed warning by Gen. Lucius D. Clay that extreme nationalist groups again are beginning to make their presence felt in post-war Germany has brought into focus one of the major problems of the Allied occupational forces.

On several occasions in the past, the U. S. military government had called attention to the difficulties of eradicating Nazism entirely.

He asked for a general understanding of the problem.

Clay has the task of preserving and rebuilding a relatively strong Germany within the limitations imposed by Soviet impoverishment in the east and French fears in the west.

At the same time he is required under the denazification laws adopted by the four powers to strip authority and even imprison men or women who contributed in the slightest to the rise of Adolf Hitler and his rule of force throughout Europe.

He is therefore, as on so many previous occasions, on the spot. In reporting on the present resurgence of Otto Strasser's "Black Front" and other nationalist organization emphasized that up to 1929, Hitler's own Nazi Party was an infinitesimal and negligible factor.

OBVIOUSLY, any remnants or offshoots of ideological relatives of Hitler's once-powerful movement comprise valuable factors in combatting Communism.

But they also are dangerous potentials in themselves, and Clay thinks the world should know of their revival.

Some of the most idealistic and gifted minds in Germany today are firmly convinced that never again in the foreseeable future will the rank and file of the population follow the leadership of a single man.

They were disillusioned in casting their fate with the overweening ambitions of Kaiser Wilhelm II; they were crushed by fate and the Allies when they heeded Hitler's call.

As a result, according to these intellectuals, the Germans now will give obedience and allegiance to a true democracy fashioned in accordance with their own traditions and spiritual and material needs.

This eliminates to some extent the unmilitaristic democracy of the United States, although they believe that with proper guidance, the American form can be moulded to that of the German temperament.

This school of thought believes that no attempt should be made to "re-educate" an already highly educated people but merely to channel their thinking into proper lines.

Pastor Denies Long List Of Accusations

GLENDALE, Cal., Jan. 13—The handsome, 46-year-old pastor of Glendale's fashionable First Baptist church asserted today that charges that he was guilty of misconduct with 40 women of his congregation "have been proven false."

The pastor, the Rev. J. Whitcomb Brounger Jr., labeled the accusations as "untrue" in a stout denial of the alleged "debauching" actions.

The minister declared in answer to a law suit filed by a former deaconess of the church and a member of the congregation who are seeking his removal from the pulpit.

"I can say that the accusations are untrue and have been proven to be false before committees, the deacon's branch, and in an open meeting of the entire church three or four years ago."

Mrs. Sadie Williams, the deaconess, and Fletcher E. Maxwell, the church member, charged in their suit that the pastor:

"Promiscuously osculated young girls who are members of the congregation."

"Openly boasted of having meretricious relations with 40 women."

Not only has he "been known to associate with bookies," the suit continued, but he also:

"Caused disruptions in the marital relations of numerous families."

"Has been known to maintain a mistress and otherwise disport himself in a most reprehensible manner in violation and disregard of the rights of the plaintiffs."

The minister denied every single one of the alleged acts.

2 Miles Of 106 To Be Improved

A state highway department survey is underway to relocate approximately two miles of Route 104 to improve traffic conditions at Fox Post Office.

Engineer H. L. Avery of Delaware, who is in charge of the survey, and his assistant Donald Klotz, are working out plans in the office of County Engineer Henry T. McCrady.

Purpose of the project is to straighten out Route 104 at that point, improve road alignment, relieve traffic on Route 23, remove traffic from Jackson Township school and improve Darby Creek crossing.

Avery said it is possible the state will let bids on the road program sometime in 1949, but hinted that it is not likely that work will get underway until 1950.

WHILE THE survey is yet incomplete, Avery said it would be difficult to estimate the cost of construction or type or road structure to be used.

Tentative plans call for the new route to break off of the present bed about 1.5 miles south of Fox, construct a new bridge over Darby Creek and connect again with 104 one-half mile northeast of the village.

The proposed road site would cut off traffic through the covered bridge now in use south of Fox and would run behind Jackson Township school to the west of the corporation, Avery said.

Heart Fails Excited Farmer

BRYAN, Jan. 13—A faulty trailer hitch was blamed today for a highway accident near here that brought about the heart failure of a 59-year-old Williams County farmer.

The victim, Burns Thompson of nearby Kunkle, was found dead in his wrecked car lying in a ditch 12 miles north of here late yesterday.

Williams County Coroner C. Paul Waid attributed death to coronary thrombosis. Investigation revealed that Thompson became overexcited when a trailer loaded with corn broke loose from his auto.

Tokyo Consul Lauds MacArthur

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—Glen W. Bruner, American consul to Tokyo, left Columbus for Washington this morning with a brief word of praise for Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Bruner, visiting Miss Helen Ruth Albrecht, a long-time friend, said he could not comment on conditions in Japan until he reported to the State Department on Jan. 17. However, he added:

"The success of the occupation is largely due to the unusual qualities of the supreme commander."

Tokyo Consul Lauds MacArthur

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13 — Glen W. Bruner, American consul to Tokyo, left Columbus for Washington this morning with a brief word of praise for Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Bruner, visiting Miss Helen Ruth Albrecht, a long-time friend, said he could not comment on conditions in Japan until he reported to the State Department on Jan. 17. However, he added:

"The success of the occupation is largely due to the unusual qualities of the supreme commander."

Education Chief Lauds School Lunch Programs

The days when Junior started off to school with a lunch box are almost past history because 1,275 schools in Ohio participate in the important business of providing a warm, wholesome meal at a minimum cost.

Dr. Clyde Hissong, state director of education, summarized benefits of the school lunch program claimed by teachers and parents as follows:

It reduces tardiness in the morning, increases daily attendance to a marked degree, improves the general health of the children and reduces child nervousness and tensions.

Furthermore, he added, many school administrators feel that as a result of the school lunch program there is an improvement in scholastic achievement, afternoon sickness and sleepiness are reduced, the weight of the children is improved and that there is a noticeable reduction in tooth decay because of the increased consumption of milk and orange juice.

How many children are served school lunches? The average daily participation totals around 214,232. Federal funds apportioned to Ohio for 1948-49 amount to $2,037,926. The Ohio legislature has provided an annual appropriation each year for state administration only. About one-fourth of the other states supplement the federal funds with state funds for reimbursement purposes.

WADE D. BASH, supervisor of the public school lunch program in Ohio, has held 16 school lunch conferences already this year in various sections of the state. Before the month is over conferences will also be held in McClellan, Findlay, New Philadelphia, Bowling Green and Kenton.

These meetings are attended by school superintendents, principals, lunch room managers, cooks, board of education members, PTA representatives, county health representatives and the Ohio Department of Health district nutritionists. The following topics are discussed—menu planning and nutrition, school lunch room sanitation, food purchasing, preparation and preservation, school lunch operation, administration and records.

One principal, F. B. Rolf of Washington high school, said: "The luncheons served at our school provide all of the basic nutritional requirements of the body."

"We believe that the health of our students has been vastly improved. Our statistics indicate a marked decrease in absenteeism and a lessening of disciplinary problems. Surely it is true that a healthy child is a good child."

Woman Dozes, Loses $7,000

CLEVELAND, Jan. 13—"The Man From Colorado" was the picture advertised by a downtown Cleveland movie theatre, but Mrs. Hazel Albright apparently thought she was seeing a reissue of "The Big Sleep."

For that reason, the 42-year-old Pittsburgh widow is between $6,000 and $7,000 poorer today.

Mrs. Albright fell asleep during the showing of the film. When she awoke four hours later, the money, in $100 bills, had disappeared from a wallet in her purse.

She said the money was part of the amount realized from the sale of her Pittsburgh home following the death of her husband.

O'Dwyer Hopes For Tug Peace

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—A spokesman for Mayor William O'Dwyer said early today that the threatened strike of tugboat workers has been rescheduled for midnight tonight.

The original strike deadline was slated for 12:02 a. m. today. O'Dwyer's spokesman announced the new deadline as representatives of the union and tugboat companies continued their negotiations.

The mayor's spokesman said: "If this happens again, the city will go into the fuel business."

A strike of tugboat workers will virtually shut off New York City's fuel oil and coal supply.

Old Building Hit By Flames

CINCINNATI, Jan. 13—Smoke and flames damaged $50,000 worth of lamps, chandeliers and other fixtures last night in one of Cincinnati's most historic buildings.

Damage was estimated at $12,000 in the blaze which wrecked the rear of the Ertel Lighting Co., where precious vases and imported lamps are renovated and repaired.

Thomas Buchanan Read wrote his famous poem "Sheridan's Ride" in the building in 1864.

Columbus Cops Told Be Kind To Tipsy People

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—The Columbus police department was working on a new theory today—be kind to drunks.

Chief Frank L. Harrison told his captains yesterday they should use more care in handling those who may have indulged themselves a little too thoroughly.

There have been a number of allegedly drunken deaths in Columbus police station in the last year and Harrison cited the most recent case—of Chillicothe Druggist Frank B. Swarts who was arrested and placed in a cell because he smelled of liquor and couldn't tell where he lived.

After his death, Coroner Robert A. Evans said Swarts died of diabetes hastened by alcohol. Diabetics frequently are affected by small amounts of alcohol so that they are unable to speak.

Harrison also warned his men to go easy on slightly tipsy persons who still could navigate under their own power. His advice: "See that they get home in-

Firebug, 17, Held By Police

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—A 17-year-old boy—called a firebug—was held here today pending a hearing Friday on charges that he set a $500,000 fire last Feb. 6, and that he burned down a huge barn on the Ohio State university farms in August, 1946.

The fire department said the boy admitted setting fire to the Columbus North Market last February and that he confessed setting the barn fire. Fire officials said the boy—on probation for turning in a false alarm last Dec. 15—also admitted turning 10 false fire alarms since Feb. 1, 1947.

Woman Dozes, Loses $7,000

CLEVELAND, Jan. 13—"The Man From Colorado" was the picture advertised by a downtown Cleveland movie theatre, but Mrs. Hazel Albright apparently thought she was seeing a reissue of "The Big Sleep."

For that reason, the 42-year-old Pittsburgh widow is between $6,000 and $7,000 poorer today.

Mrs. Albright fell asleep during the showing of the film. When she awoke four hours later, the money, in $100 bills, had disappeared from a wallet in her purse.

She said the money was part of the amount realized from the sale of her Pittsburgh home following the death of her husband.

O'Dwyer Hopes For Tug Peace

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—A spokesman for Mayor William O'Dwyer said early today that the threatened strike of tugboat workers has been rescheduled for midnight tonight.

The original strike deadline was slated for 12:02 a. m. today. O'Dwyer's spokesman announced the new deadline as representatives of the union and tugboat companies continued their negotiations.

The mayor's spokesman said: "If this happens again, the city will go into the fuel business."

A strike of tugboat workers will virtually shutoff New York City's fuel oil and coal supply.

Old Building Hit By Flames

CINCINNATI, Jan. 13—Smoke and flames damaged $50,000 worth of lamps, chandeliers and other fixtures last night in one of Cincinnati's most historic buildings.

Damage was estimated at $12,000 in the blaze which wrecked the rear of the Eitel Lighting Co., where precious vases and imported lamps are renovated and repaired.

Thomas Buchanan Read wrote his famous poem "Sheridan's Ride" in the building in 1864.

Firebug, 17, Held By Police

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—A 17-year-old boy—called a firebug—was held here today pending a hearing Friday on charges that he set a $500,000 fire last Feb. 6, and that he burned down a huge barn on the Ohio State university farms in August, 1946.

The fire department said the boy admitted setting fire to the Columbus North Market last February and that he confessed setting the barn fire. Fire officials said the boy—on probation for turning in a false alarm last Dec. 15—also admitted turning 10 false fire alarms since Feb. 1, 1947.

Rural Party Line Limit Is Proposed

Solon Urges Better Phone Service

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—Rep. Robert W. Reider (D), of Ottawa County, announced today that he will introduce a bill into the Ohio legislature designed to provide relief for party line telephone users, whom he described as among "the hundreds of thousands of customers who are hopelessly saddled with inadequate service."

Legislation to be sponsored by Reider proposes to restrict utility companies from placing more than five telephones on any one line.

He charged the existence of a statewide average of 10 telephones on party lines and declared that in numerous instances throughout Ohio, particularly in rural areas, the number of telephones on single lines is considerably higher than the state average, excessive to the point where rendering good service is "a hopeless impossibility."

"Ohio's rural telephone users are entitled to adequate service and it is an obligation of the legislature to compel the utilities to recognize this fact," Reider declared.

THE OTTAWA County solon, who won three battle stars and the French Croix de Guerre during World War II as a special agent of the Army's Counter Intelligence Corps, explained that fighting for improved telephone service is not a new experience for him.

As a newspaper publisher at Oak Harbor, Reider has been waging an editorial battle with the Northern Ohio Telephone Co., Bellevue, for nearly a year in an effort to get utility to raise its standards of service in Ottawa County.

In the face of rate increase threats from all sides, Reider today described his legislative proposal as the "only hope" to secure improved service for Ohio's thousands of rural telephone users.

3 U. S. Fliers Held In Slaying

GUAM, Jan. 13—Three U. S. Air Force men pleaded innocent today at their arraignment in Guam criminal court on charges of kidnapping, raping and murdering Ruth Farnsworth of San Francisco.

The arraignment was held after the suspects—Pvt. Calvin Dennis, 26; his brother, Pvt. Herman T. Dennis, Jr., 20; and Staff Sgt. Robert W. Burns, 32—were turned over to Guam's civilian authorities for trial.

The U. S. Navy stated earlier that the Dennis brothers had admitted taking part in the rape-slaying of Miss Farnsworth, who was found dying in a jungle patch last Dec. 13, two days after her disappearance.

The savage criminal assault and murder of the beautiful 27-year-old civilian employee of the Navy shocked all of Guam.

EVERYTHING IS PEACEFUL as Miss Ray Walker, circus animal trainer, walks Sultan along an East London, South Africa, street. But a few minutes after the picture was taken Sultan turned on her, mauled her badly before three men dashed to rescue. Despite injuries she helped pacify Sultan, got him into a taxi, back to his cage before seeking medical aid. And the plucky lass appeared that night as usual in the ring with her lion act. Boy Scout Troop Ready To Open Training Plan

Boy Scout Troop 107 will be the first in Pickaway district to participate in the new physical examination program set up for local Boy Scouts, Senior Scouts and Cub Scouts.

Two patrols of the troop Saturday are to report in the offices of Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway County Health Commissioner, for the exams.

The doctor, chairman of safety and health in the Pickaway District, has agreed to examine scouts every Saturday on a regular schedule until March 26.

Purpose of these examinations is to detect physical disorders before effects become serious.

"Frequently," Dr. Blackburn points out, "defects discovered in time can be wholly corrected."

Sealed notices concerning health disorders will be sent to scout's parents together with Dr. Blackburn's suggested recommendations.

The first group will be examined in the doctor's offices at 9:30 a. m.

Announcement of the settlement came from Federal Mediator Howard Plank and the negotiators after a 17-hour session of almost continuous bargaining. Final agreement was reached only 3-1/2 hours before some 14,500 men were scheduled to walk out in a work stoppage which was expected to bring embargo on rail shipments into Chicago.

Fair Managers Await Election

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—Nearly one thousand delegates to the Ohio fair managers' convention here were to elect officers today and consider two resolutions aimed at easing their financial burdens.

The two resolutions ask the state to double its $1,500 to $2,000 grants to county and independent fairs, and request the counties lift their $10,000 maximum aid for fair buildings.

Here's the list of fair dates as announced:

Delaware County at Delaware, Sept. 19-23; Fairfield at Lancaster, Oct. 11-15; Fayette, Washington C. H., July 26-30; Hocking, Logan, Sept. 21-24; Knox, Mt. Vernon, July 25-30; Madison, London, Aug. 21-25; Marion, Marion, Aug. 21-27; Morrow, Mt. Gilead, Aug. 17-20; Muskingum,

Hen House Plan Aids Production

If a flock of Leghorn hens were to go househunting, they would look for just about the same comforts as their human prototypes.

Sufficient space, good ventilation, uniform temperatures, a sturdy foundation and floors are a few of the recommendations for housing the birds, according to suggestions in a revised extension bulletin on "Poultry Housing" issued by the University of Minnesota.

Like all construction, building a poultry house is an expensive proposition. As it is difficult to correct mistakes after the build-

Rural Party Line Limit Is Proposed

Solon Urges Better Phone Service

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—Rep. Robert W. Reider (D), of Ottawa County, announced today that he will introduce a bill into the Ohio legislature designed to provide relief for party line telephone users, whom he described as among "the hundreds of thousands of customers who are hopelessly saddled with inadequate service."

Legislation to be sponsored by Reider proposes to restrict utility companies from placing more than five telephones on any one line.

He charged the existence of a statewide average of 10 telephones on party lines and declared that in numerous instances throughout Ohio, particularly in rural areas, the number of telephones on single lines is considerably higher than the state average, excessive to the point where rendering good service is "a hopeless impossibility."

"Ohio's rural telephone users are entitled to adequate service and it is an obligation of the legislature to compel the utilities to recognize this fact," Reider declared.

THE OTTAWA County solon, who won three battle stars and the French Croix de Guerre during World War II as a special agent of the Army's Counter Intelligence Corps, explained that fighting for improved telephone service is not a new experience for him.

As a newspaper publisher at Oak Harbor, Reider has been waging an editorial battle with the Northern Ohio Telephone Co., Bellevue, for nearly a year in an effort to get utility to raise its standards of service in Ottawa County.

In the face of rate increase threats from all sides, Reider today described his legislative proposal as the "only hope" to secure improved service for Ohio's thousands of rural telephone users.

3 U. S. Fliers Held In Slaying

GUAM, Jan. 13—Three U. S. Air Force men pleaded innocent today at their arraignment in Guam criminal court on charges of kidnapping, raping and murdering Ruth Farnsworth of San Francisco.

The arraignment was held after the suspects—Pvt. Calvin Dennis, 26; his brother, Pvt. Herman T. Dennis, Jr., 20; and Staff Sgt. Robert W. Burns, 32—were turned over to Guam's civilian authorities for trial.

The U. S. Navy stated earlier that the Dennis brothers had admitted taking part in the rape-slaying of Miss Farnsworth, who was found dying in a jungle patch last Dec. 13, two days after her disappearance.

The savage criminal assault and murder of the beautiful 27-year-old civilian employee of the Navy shocked all of Guam.

Chicago Truck Strike Averted

CHICAGO, Jan. 13—Union and trucking association negotiators averted a crippling truck strike today by agreeing on a 25-cent hourly across-the-board wage

EVERYTHING IS PEACEFUL as Miss Ray Walker, circus animal trainer, walks Sultan along an East London, South Africa, street. But a few minutes after the picture was taken Sultan turned on her, mauled her badly before three men dashed to rescue. Despite injuries she helped pacify Sultan, got him into a taxi, back to his cage before seeking medical aid. And the plucky lass appeared that night as usual in the ring with her lion act. Boy Scout Troop Ready To Open Training Plan

Boy Scout Troop 107 will be the first in Pickaway district to participate in the new physical examination program set up for local Boy Scouts, Senior Scouts and Cub Scouts.

Two patrols of the troop Saturday are to report in the offices of Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Pickaway County Health Commissioner, for the exams.

The doctor, chairman of a safety and health in the Pickaway District, has agreed to examine scouts every Saturday on a regular schedule until March 26.

Purpose of these examinations is to detect physical disorders before effects become serious. "Frequently," Dr. Blackburn points out, "defects discovered in time can be wholly corrected."

Sealed notices concerning health disorders will be sent to scout's parents together with Dr. Blackburn's suggested recommendations.

The first group will be examined in the doctor's offices at 9:30 a. m.

boost for Chicago area drivers and helpers.

Announcement of the settlement came from Federal Mediator Howard Plank and the negotiators after a 17-hour session of almost continuous bargaining.

Final agreement was reached only 3-1/2 hours before some 14,500 men were scheduled to walk out in a work stoppage which was expected to bring embargo on rail shipments into Chicago.

2 Juvenile GIs Get Jail Terms

CINCINNATI, Jan. 13—Two juvenile soldiers AWOL from Fort Knox, Ky., were under four-year sentences here today for robbing James Rector, 33, of Indianapolis of $186.

They were Raymond Hayes, 17, of Louisville and Charles Maley, 17, of Cincinnati. District Court Judge John H. Druffel ordered them imprisoned yesterday, until after they were 21.

They originally were charged with kidnapping and armed robbery, but the U. S. attorney general's office insisted they be tried under the juvenile offense law.

Fair Managers Await Election

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—Nearly one thousand delegates to the Ohio fair managers' convention here were to elect officers today and consider two resolutions aimed at easing their financial burdens.

The two resolutions ask the state to double its $1,500 to $2,000 grants to county and independent fairs, and request the counties lift their $10,000 maximum aid for fair buildings.

Here's the list of fair dates as announced:

Delaware County at Delaware, Sept. 19-23; Fairfield at Lancaster, Oct. 11-15; Fayette, Washington C. H., July 26-30; Hocking, Logan, Sept. 21-24; Knox, Mt. Vernon, July 25-30; Madison, London, Aug. 21-25; Marion, Marion, Aug. 21-27; Morrow, Mt. Gilead, Aug. 17-20; Muskingum,

Promoters Cut Prices For Fights

$5 Ticket Covers Full Evening Now

NEW YORK, Jan. 13 — The Tournament of Champions will offer an innovation in big time boxing which is almost unbelievable for these times.

They will charge a reasonable price for tickets.

For their first show next Wednesday night, the new promoters will ask a tariff of only $5 for the best seat in the house.

Their attraction will be a heavyweight brawl between two of the hardest hitting heavyweights in the business, Curtis Sheppard, the Baltimore hatchet man, and Rusty Payne, of Dallas, Tex.

Immediate reaction to this feature on a card of 38 rounds may be that the fight is not worth more than $5, but many of those being put on in Madison Square Garden fall into that same category at higher ticket prices.

In addition to cutting prices right down to the bone, the new outfit, which heretofore has been forced to promote in New Jersey, has come up with a couple of the 20th Century's former hired hands.

THEY HAVE taken on Chick Bogard to do their matchmaking and Harry Balough and his peculiar version of grammar, syntax, pronunciation and oratory as announcer.

The new promoters also disclosed that they have a call on the services of such fighters as Ray Robinson, Gus Lesnevich, Charlie Fuzari, Jake Lamotta, Billy Graham and, of course, Marcel Cerdan, the Frenchman who won the middleweight title under the T. C. promotional banner.

The 20th Century still holds the inside track on boxing and may never relinquish it, but if this isn't a hurricane it is at least a zephyr in the race for control of the fight racket.

Whichever side winds up with the next heavyweight champion will have the power and it probably will be the 20th Century, although the new outfit obviously is trying to create a little activity in that department.

It isn't even remotely possible that either Sheppard or Payne will become a contender, but in this match the T. C. will come up with a fighter who will be available for a crack at another heavyweight and sooner or later there could be a worthwhile survivor.

Saltcreek Tops Laurelville '5'

Saltcreek Warrior basketballers swamped Laurelville 58-27 on the loser's court Wednesday night.

Saltcreek reserves made a clean sweep of the evening by posting a 34-32 win over the Laurelville juniors in the preliminary engagement. Box scores were not available.

Many early painters and sculptors carved cameos sometimes, such men as William Morris Hunt, Erastus Palmer, Launt Thompson, and women, too.

Scientists, or agricultural engineers, are speeding up the sugar beet industry by developing a beet that is more agreeable to being pulled up by machine. When they get through with that, how about designing square peas that'll stay on a knife, or ears of corn with handles or knobs on both ends? The possibilities for improvement in the agricultural field are as obvious as a bowling ball in a dish of caviar. How about a new kind of celery that doesn't sound as though you're stepping on a wicker basket when you eat it? And while we don't want to tax the experts, couldn't something be done about the radish?

Boxing Game Lauded In Long Dinner Meet

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—Boxing the "sick man" of the Broadway amusement belt, got quite a going over until well into the early hours today at the 10th annual dinner of the Boxing Writers Association.

New York Boxing Chairman Eddie Eagan, National Boxing Association President Abe J. Greene, 20th Century Club General Manager Harry Markson and others spoke favorably of boxing's achievements during the old year, and flowingly of its prospects in the new.

Meanwhile, World's Lightweight Champion Ike Williams, of Trenton, N. J., waited through five hours of this in order to receive his two 1948 awards.

Most choice of these was the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque, Williams' tribute to the boxing writers as boxing's outstanding figure in 1948. Ike's second trophy represented Ring Magazine's nomination for the same honor. Nat Fleischer made both presentations in his role as Ring editor.

Former Postmaster General James A. Farley, former boxing commissioner, presented the James J. Walker Trophy to Dan Morgan, veteran manager, for his long and meritorious contribution to the sport.

Rookie-of-the-year honors went to Ex-Marine Attilio Castellani, Luzerne, Pa., middleweight, unbeaten in two years. Marcel Cerdan, France, was acclaimed for the year's "outstanding performance."

12 Teams Set For Intramural Cage League

Twelve freshmen and junior high school basketball teams plan to open a junior intramural league in Circleville high school gym Saturday morning.

The new league will contain four teams from the seventh grade, three from the eighth and five teams from the freshman class.

Tom Bennett, of the Circleville high school faculty, is organizer of the league, and plans to hold all six games Saturday morning before noon. The first encounter is slated for 8 a. m.

Each of the teams participating are to be known by its captain's name. Teams engaged in the league, according to grades, follow:

Seventh grade—Kenneth Bensonhavers; Howard Cooks; Gary Thomases; and Tommy Elseses. Eighth grade—Harry Redmans; Fred Davises; and Bob Turners.

Freshmen—Roger Benningtons; Ted Mogans; Ronalds Sealls; Tom Tatmans and Jim Georges.

Gordon Blake is the league secretary.

Blue Peter Tagged Top 3-Year-Old

Roebling Colt Derby Favorite

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—John B. Campbell's experimental ratings for three-year-olds are out today and Blue Peter has been given the top figure of 126 pounds.

There is nothing startling about that, because the Joseph M. Roebling colt already has been installed the early favorite for the Kentucky Derby, if not the other triple crown classics.

Maybe the real surprise is the 121-pound rating given to Myrtle Charm, the Maine Chance Farm's filly which was runner-up to Blue Peter in the futurity. Allowing her five pounds for belonging to the weaker sex, she theoretically shares topweight billing with Blue Peter.

However, there has been no regret around lately to win the Kentucky Derby, so it is natural to look for colts and geldings who are likely to challenge Blue Peter's superiority, unless that fellow turns out to be another Citation.

CAMPBELL rated another Chance racer, Mr. Busher, at 124, nearest to Blue Peter in actual poundage.

There is no quarrel with the Jockey Club's handicapper and racing secretary on that score, either. Mr. Busher, who likes Blue Peter is a son of War Admiral, also is a full brother of the famous filly, Busher. He cost $50,000, a record price for a weanling, but won himself out early.

It is believed that Campbell would have rated Mr. Busher on a par with Blue Peter but for the fact that the former made only three starts before being cut down in the Washington Park Futurity and being thrown out of training.

Campbell rates the Green-tree Stable's Capot at 122 pounds, just below Mr. Busher. Not much attention has been paid to the remaining three-year-olds in discussing the coming classics, yet many owners believe they have colts fit to try for the triple crown.

Most of these dark horses are animals who were bright prospects early last year but suffered injuries that brought about inactivity and removed them from the public eye.

Horses which are reported to be wintering well and worth watching include Wine List, Prince Quest, Whirl Blast, Prophet's Thumb, Ocean Drive, Sport Page, Star Fiddle, Olympia and Burning Night.

Other possible upsets include Johns Joy and Palestinian. Ocean Drive, Olympia and Johns Joy are rated fifth, sixth and seventh, respectively, on Campbell's list.

FIRST bonus player ever signed by the Yankees, Paul Edwin Hinrichs, Concordia seminary student, reportedly signed for $60,000 bonus. Hinrichs, a pitcher, has been assigned to the Yankees' Kansas City farm. He is 23 years old and won 18 for Lubbock, Tex., in 1947 and nine games for Dallas this year. Most of the major league clubs were seeking his services. (International)

Rhodes Awarded Title Of Chief Sports Man

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—Mayor James A. Rhodes held his second scroll today, honoring him as Sports Man of the Year in Columbus.

Rhodes, president of the AAU and founder of the National Cadetry Tournament, was listed as Columbus' greatest contributor to sports in 1947 and again last night at the fifth annual dinner of the Columbus All Sports Council.

He was presented by Minor League Czar George Trautman who hailed the mayor for his "fine leadership and unselfish devotion."

Avery Brundage, president of the U. S. Olympic Association, told the 375 guests: "Amateur sports must be kept free of the dollar sign."

And Brundage outlined the difference between amateur and pro sports this way: "Amateur sports are played for fun—for the love of the game. Professional sports are a business."

Rhodes, who was awarded a membership at Scioto Country Club, won out over OSU football Coach Wes Fesler; Swimmer Bill Smith and his coach, Mike Peppe; Allen Rankin, U. S. senior golf champion; Track Star Mal Whitfield; Billy Southworth, manager of the Boston Braves; Orie Youngman, bowler, and Swimmers Bruce Harlan and Miller Anderson.

2 OSU Stars Shun Meeting

COLUMBUS, Jan. 13—Injuries and illness caused two top Ohio State university track stars to turn cold shoulders today to an indoor meet in Washington Saturday.

Lloyd Duff, the Lakewood all-arounder, said he would enter university hospital in the next day or two for an operation on a chipped bone in his elbow. And Mal Whitfield announced he would stick around Columbus and nurse a cold.

Those making the Washington trip are Bill Clifford in the 100-yard event, Harry Cogswell in the 600-yard and Frank D'Arcy, two miles.

Coach Larry Snyder said Clifford was ineligible at State this Winter and would go as an independent.

Births Outnumber Deaths During '48

More Girls Than Boys Are Born

Health Offices Give Yearly Tab

Births outnumbered deaths in Pickaway County by a total of 179 during 1948, according to annual report from city and county boards of health.

A total of 509 births were reported last year while only 330 deaths were counted.

And the number of girls born during 1948 outnumbered boys by 53, a total of 281 girls born and only 228 boys.

Leading cause of death in the county was heart disease. Following were cerebral hemorrhages and accidents. Cancer ranked fourth and pneumonia was the sixth largest killer.

The county led the city in number of deaths during the period with a total of 191, while the city reported—but 139.

OF THE TOTAL 191 county deaths, 54 were reported from Orient institute, with the leading cause of death listed as pulmonary tuberculosis. No Pickaway Countians outside the institution were reported as dying from the disease during 1948.

Circleville, however, led in the number of births with a total of 420, while only 89 were listed in the county.

Of the 420 city births, the girls outnumbered boys by 230 to 190, while in the county they led by 51 to 38.

Greatest number of deaths during the year fell in the 71-80 years age range, while only slightly fewer were reported in the 61-70 range.

Reports by health officials covering the single month of December: virtually duplicated the resume for the entire year. More girls than boys were born and there were more births than deaths.

A total of 45 babies were born during December last month while only 30 persons died.

Girls accounted for 24 of the births during the period while boys took the back seat with 21. A total of 32 babies were born in Circleville, 17 girls and 15 boys, and a total of 13 were born in the county, seven girls and six boys.

The county submitted the greatest number of deaths during the month with a total of 22, including two from the Orient institution. The city reported but eight deaths.

GREATEST number of deaths during December occurred in the age range of 61-70 years, which contained nine. Next high was the 71-80 years range, which contained seven.

No still births were reported from either office during the month.

Age range of deaths in both city and county follows: one year and under two; 11-20 years, one; 21-30 years, one; 31-40 years, one; 41-50 years, three; 51-60 years, three; 61-70 years, nine; 71-80 years, seven; 81-90 years, three.

Soil Conservation Usage Increases To New Mark

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13—The Agriculture Department said today that permanent soil conservation measures were applied to 21,567,000 acres in fiscal 1948, breaking all previous records in this field.

Chief H. H. Bennett of the Soil Conservation Service said in his annual report that if present efforts are sharply increased soil erosion problems can be completely controlled in 20 to 30 years.

Bennett told Agriculture Secretary Brannan that there is need to complete land capability surveys for the whole country as a source of information in working out future conservation plans. He said:

"The solution of our land problem can be stated simply: Use each acre of land under adequate safeguards from erosion and other impoverishing forces for the type of production to

Births Outnumber Deaths During '48

More Girls Than Boys Are Born

Health Offices Give Yearly Tab

Births outnumbered deaths in Pickaway County by a total of 179 during 1948, according to annual reports from city and county boards of health.

A total of 509 births were reported last year while only 330 deaths were counted.

And the number of girls born during 1948 outnumbered boys by 53, a total of 281 girls born and only 228 boys.

Leading cause of death in the county was heart disease. Following were cerebral hemorrhages and accidents. Cancer ranked fourth and pneumonia was the sixth largest killer.

The county led the city in number of deaths during the period with a total of 191, while the city reported but 139.

OF THE TOTAL 191 county deaths, 54 were reported from Orient institute, with the leading cause of death listed as pulmonary tuberculosis. No Pickaway Countians outside the institution were reported as dying from the disease during 1948.

Circleville, however, led in the number of births with a total of 420, while only 89 were listed in the county.

Of the 420 city births, the girls outnumbered boys by 230 to 190, while in the county they led by 51 to 38.

Greatest number of deaths during the year fell in the 71-80 years age range, while only slightly fewer were reported in the 61-70 range.
